Six Killed in Sullivan County Bus Crash

By JON POWERS

NORTH BRANCH Five were killed instantly; a sixth died several hours later. Police said four of the dead were children. Six others were injured, but not critically. In an Ulster County crash Friday night, two Volkswagens were demolished and seven persons injured in a collision on Route 28 in West Hurley. None of the seven injured were hurt seriously. The Sullivan County crash was described as one of the worst in that area in recent history. Police said that the bus, a 1947 model carrying California license plates, was en route to the Buck Brook Farm, an extension of the Greene Valley School of Orange City, Fla. It was reported that the converted bus, which contained sleeping and cooking facilities, had left the Florida school several days ago, and was "on a tour of the country." That tour was to have included the Buck Brook Farm in Sullivan County. The accident occurred about 300 yards short of the Farm's entrance.

Charles Nelson, 50, was the driver of the bus, and one of the six killed. He had reportedly called the Sullivan County school at about 2 p.m. Friday, asking for directions there. He was met several miles from the school by Nicholas Hammer, 27, who led the way in a pickup truck.

The two vehicles were proceeding along the twisting, hilly road when the brakes of the old bus apparently failed. The bus picked up speed as it traveled out of control down a steep hill. It struck the rear of the pickup truck and then careened off the road into a clump of trees.

The sides of the bus were ripped off, and the entire vehicle was demolished. Three of the victims were thrown from the wreckage; the other three were trapped inside. Police said a number of injured passengers were scattered over a 100-foot radius from the bus. Cooking utensils, bedding, clothing and other items from the bus also were scattered around the area.

The pickup truck slammed into a utility pole after it was struck from the rear by the runaway bus. The driver suffered foot injuries.

Killed in addition to Nelson, were two of his children: Brenda Nelson, 11, and Sheryl Nelson, 8; 39-year-old Beverly Corwin and two of her children, Eric Corwin, 7, and Mark Corwin, 14.

Five of Nelson's children were injured in the crash. Their ages ranged from 8 to 20. Paula Corwin and 14-year-old Denise Ross also were injured. All of those injured were listed in satisfactory condition at Community General Hospital, Catskill.

Also involved in the massive pileup was a car being towed by the bus. It was unoccupied but contained a number of personal belongings.

Hurley State Police, meanwhile, investigated a two-car pileup at the intersection of Route 28 and Broad Street in West Hurley Friday night.

They reported that a car driven by Lynn Madsen, 23, of Broad Street was in the left eastbound lane of the four lane highway preparing to turn into Broad Street when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Hume Phelan, 19, of Katonah.

Police said the Phelan car was traveling at a high rate of speed. They issued the driver a summons for reckless driving.

The impact of the crash demolished both vehicles, troops reported. Mrs. Madsen sustained multiple abrasions. Also injured were her three children: Michael, 6; Gregory, 5; and Brian, 4. They sustained facial abrasions and lacerations.

Phelan sustained facial lacerations. Two passengers in his car, Douglas Pennington, 18, of Preston, Conn., and Ellen Horton, 20, of Melwood, N.Y., sustained lacerations.

Brian Madsen was reported in satisfactory condition at Kingston Hospital today. Benedictine Hospital reported Pennington's condition was fair.

Doctors Ambulance, Fatums Ambulance and the West Hurley Rescue Squad transported the injured to the two Kingston hospitals.

Nixon in Swift Flight For Hirohito Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon scheduled a swift journey across the continent to the Pacific Northwest today for a Sunday evening meeting with Japanese Emperor Hirohito in Alaska.

The President, accompanied by his wife, planned to meet the Japanese monarch at Anchorage's Elmendorf Air Force Base, where the emperor will stop en route to Europe on his first overseas trip since he came to the throne. It will be Hirohito's first visit to American soil.

En route to Alaska, Nixon scheduled stops in Montana, Oregon and Washington.

The meeting with Hirohito was a goodwill gesture obviously aimed at soothing Japanese feelings hurt by Nixon's failure to consult Japan on his new economic program and his attempt to improve U.S. relations with Communist China.

Nixon also will take the occasion to ease his bitter feud with former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, fired by Nixon last November. Nixon will attend a reception at Hickel's home in Anchorage.

Nixon will have an opportunity to decrease friction that developed between Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and the White House when Nixon speech writer William Safire called newsmen to pass along a report that Mansfield threatened to withhold campaign funds from Democratic senators who voted for the military draft extension bill. Mansfield denied the charge.

Soviet Union reports grave political developments in Communist China. Story on page 16.

Mansfield and his wife joined the presidential party for the flight to Kallispel, Mont. Nixon accepted a long-standing invitation from Mansfield and other members of the Montana congressional delegation to view the $426 million Libby Dam, which is under construction on the Kootenai River.

The trip schedule called for Nixon to fly by helicopter over the 420-foot high dam, which is to be completed in May, 1972. Nixon then planned to fly to Portland, Ore., where he will brief Northwest editors and Alaska publishers on national and international affairs. Nixon was scheduled to remain overnight in Portland after hosting news media representatives from 13 states at a reception.

Sunday morning he will fly to Walla Walla, Wash., to tour the Hanford atomic reactor plant with Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton and Dr. James Schlesinger, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Later in the day he will travel to Alaska but he is expected to refrain from any announcement on the controversial underground nuclear test scheduled to be detonated at Amchitka Island in the Aleutian chain next month. The test, called Cannikin, is designed to check out the Spartan missile warhead for the Safeguard Anti-Ballistic Missile System.

The test is being fought in the courts by conservationists. There had been reports that Nixon might announce cancellation of the test during Hirohito's brief stopover in Alaska.

Prisoner Guns Down Deputy During His Father's Funeral

WASHINGTON (AP) — A deputy U.S. marshal was killed in a gunfight outside a church after the stepbrother of a prisoner he was guarding pulled a gun at the funeral of the prisoner's father, police said.

Both brothers were wounded but managed to commandeer a passing car and lead police on a high-speed chase through city streets before they were captured two miles from the scene, authorities said.

Screaming mourners dived under pews as the two made their escape from the church. "It was something like you see in the movies," said Mrs. Willie Christy, secretary of the Florida Avenue Baptist Church.

The Rev. Robert L. Rollins told police the mourners were just getting ready to view the remains when there was a lot of running around in the back of the packed church. "I looked up and three or four people had their hands was standing, waving a gun at them. Everybody fell down between the pews. I hid behind the chancel."

Police said Randolph J. Green, 24, was sitting handcuffed in a rear pew with several deputy marshals nearby toward the end of the funeral when his stepbrother, Lavance Green, 23, appeared next to the pew with a gun and ordered the marshals to unlock the cuffs, hand over their guns and raise their hands.

Outside the church, the brother was confronted by marshal as it roared through a nearby

Norman E. Sheriff and, in the ensuing fusillade, Sheriff was mortally shot in the chest and abdomen, police said. The prisoner was shot four times and his brother, who was also wanted by police as a parole violator, was shot in the hand, authorities added.

Despite their wounds, police said the pair stopped a passing car, ordered the driver out at gunpoint and roared off. The car attracted police's attention

After a high-speed chase by police cars and motorcycles that lasted about five minutes, the two were forced to the curb and captured without gunfire, detectives related.

Police said Lavance Green was arraigned on a homicide charge and his brother was technically charged with homicide to be arraigned after he recovers from his wounds.

Retired Justice Black Dead at 85

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hugo L. Black, forced by poor health to retire eight days ago from the Supreme Court that constantly reflected his liberal philosophy during more than a third of a century of service, died early today. He was 85.

Death came at Bethesda Naval Hospital in suburban Maryland, where Black had been treated since Aug. 28 for inflamed arteries and where he suffered a severe stroke last Sunday.

The hospital, in a one-sentence announcement, attributed his death to those two ailments and said the former justice "died peacefully at 1 a.m. this morning." Further details were not immediately available.

During his 34 years on the nation's highest tribunal, Black probably did more than any other justice to influence the court in cases that led to broad social change.

He was an ardent defender of civil liberties and civil rights, from freedom of religion to freedom of speech and the press. He fought perpetually — and often won — his arguments that the First Amendment could never be compromised and that the 14th Amendment required every state to obey the entire Bill of Rights.

For Black, the U.S. Constitution was his Bible and he always carried a copy of it in his pocket. When he had to explain one of his many unpopular decisions, he frequently replied: "The court didn't do it. The Constitution did."

Perhaps his most notable actions were his ruling barring prayers in public schools and two dissents, both of which later became the law of the land. One required states to provide all indigent criminal defendants with a lawyer and the other ordered equal apportionment of state legislatures.

Black's term on the Supreme Court was the third longest in history. His retirement was followed last Thursday by that of Justice John Marshall Harlan, 72, whose physician said he was suffering from spinal cancer.

The departure of the two men gives President Nixon a further opportunity to reshape the court. He already has appointed Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Associate Justice Harry A. Blackmun. Two other nominations, of Clement F. Haynesworth Jr. and G. Harrold Carswell, were rejected by the Senate.

There has been speculation, part of it inspired by the President himself, that one of the two vacancies might be filled with a woman for the first time in history.

Black's condition worsened steadily after he suffered the stroke last Sunday. The hospital had said his prognosis was "poor" and his family was at his bedside during the last days.

He is survived by his second wife, Elizabeth; his sons, Hugo Jr., and Sterling, and his daughter, Martha, now Mrs. Mario Pesaresi.

To Black, the matter of human rights was always paramount in a judicial decision.

"No higher duty, no more solemn responsibility," he once said, "rests upon the court than that of translating into living law and maintaining this constitutional shield, deliberately planned and inscribed for the benefit of every human being, subject to our Constitution, of whatever race, creed or political persuasion."

Asked on his 80th birthday the secret of his good health and bubbling spirits, Black said, "I think I've lived a normal life without excesses of any kind except work."

On his 85th birthday last Feb. 27, he said he found his ever-increasing workload "more fun" if anything, than ever before.

He said he still played tennis — his favorite game — but sometimes had trouble seeing the ball.

His attractive wife, Elizabeth, 53, told reporters a year earlier, "we have to hit a ball every day, no matter what."

"It is a long journey from the frontier farmhouse in the hills of Clay County, Ala., to the United States Supreme Court," Black revealed in an unprecedented television interview granted CBS Dec. 3, 1968. "But this nation, created by our Constitution, offers countless examples just like mine."

"That Constitution is my legal Bible," he said. "Its plan of our government is my plan and its destiny my destiny."

"I cherish every word of it from the first to the last, and I personally deplore even the slightest deviation from its least important commands," he declared.

M., presents President Nixon a bronze sculpture, "The Dance of the Eagle," in Washington which Naranjo sculptured at a 15-hour-per-day pace over a long period of time. Nixon deeply moved, said: "It has a marvelous feel to it." The President told Naranjo that he admired his having overcome his handicap. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

One-Side Parking Established on Woodstock Streets

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

and WADE BURKHART

WOODSTOCK

The State of New York, once set in motion, moves quickly. Last night the State Department of Transportation, without much warning, swooped into Woodstock, and when it swooped out again there was one side of the street parking on Route 212 in Woodstock from Pine Grove Street to the west end of Orchard Lane.

There will be parking only on the south side of the street.

One side of the street parking is effective immediately.

The move had been formally requested by the Woodstock Town Board, but little warning was given before the State acted upon the request.

Councilman Paul DeLisio said the board had been informed that a work order had been put out on the job, and had talked about the coming one side parking Tuesday night, but did not expect the job to be done for another three weeks.

DeLisio had not been downtown to see the new parking plan when contacted by The Freeman today. In fact, he was unaware the job had been done. When told one side of the street parking was a fact in Woodstock, he said it was "fantastic."

The board requested the job late in July or early August, according to DeLisio.

The congestion problem the plan is designed to solve was "pretty severe," DeLisio said. It was particularly bad on the hill in the middle of town, where, with cars parked on both sides of the street, it was impossible to get a car and a good sized truck through at the same time, the councilman said.

The problem was especially bad on the busy summer weekends.

Special

The new plan will be a great aid in snow removal, too. DeLisio said last winter the police had to use one side of the street parking on a temporary basis to facilitate snow removal. Having permanent one side of the street parking should be "tremendous for snow removal," DeLisio said.

Numerous little accidents had occurred in Woodstock because of the congestion. They should be reduced by the new plan, and the flow of traffic greatly facilitated, according to DeLisio.

Space for the parked cars driven off the street will be provided by the new municipal lot behind the Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties. The lot is on bank property, on which the town has taken a 99-year lease.

The lot was built by the town, and recently opened.

Though well over a mile of road has been completely eliminated. The town board had requested one side parking as far as Schoonmaker Lane, and there may still be a congestion problem in that area.

There will be a new problem in the area of the Post Office. What was a problem of congestion may now be a problem of lack of parking spaces.

There may still be a jam in front of the movie house. Chief Constable William Waterous said the plan was effective immediately, and tickets will be given. However, the chief said, they will be only courtesy or warning tickets for the next week or so, until he feels the public is used to the idea.

Tickets were being given out last night and this morning.

One side of the street parking has been a long time coming to Woodstock. As one long-time Woodstock resident put it when being asked about the new plan, "It's about time, after 15 years of yelling."

Louis R. Netter...Mass of Resurrection, Eulogy, Burial

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON—Louis R. Netter, Freeman editor, was laid to rest in St. Mary's Cemetery shortly after noon Friday.

It was a sad day in many respects. Mr. Netter, who died on Tuesday at the age of 74, after more than 50 years at the Freeman, was well known, well respected and well loved by his family and many friends.

In the words of the Rev. Edward Netter, eulogizing his deceased uncle at St. Mary's Church: "Sympathy goes out to the relatives. Our loss is great. But our consolation is also great. Because we know that Lou Netter was truly a Christian man. He is at peace. He knows now the really good news. That life is worth living."

Some 80 persons attended Mr. Netter's Mass of Resurrection at St. Mary's Church where he had been a faithful parishioner for more than half a century.

A delegation of bankers, led by James Norton, president of the Rondout Savings Bank, where Mr. Netter had been a director and vice president, served as honorary pall bearers.

Former State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, a longtime friend of Mr. Netter's was there, along with Richard L. Treat, Freeman publisher, and his wife; Mayor Francis R. Koenig, the mayor's brother, Joseph, Walter Clark, Charles Tiano, good newspaperman, a good community man. "But Lou Netter was above all a good Christian man," Father Netter said. "He believed Jesus Christ to be the truth and he believed Jesus Christ to be the way and he believed that Jesus Christ was life."

"I am the truth said Jesus. He revealed for all time the good news that would never be good family man, a sage, a resurrection. And he was editorialized by the men who wrote the gospels, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. "Lou was a good newsman. He recognized the truth of the good news that gave him freedom to be a child of God. He followed the truth. He followed Jesus Christ."

"I am the way, said Jesus Christ. Lou followed the path-way of Jesus Christ and it took him to church frequently. He hadn't missed a First Friday in years. He was in church with his wife Margaret (Monday night) a few hours before he died. He didn't have to be there. There was no obligation. It was the way of the Christian man, doing not only what he had to do,

"Jesus Christ is life. Lou increased his life at the supper table of the Lord. He shared his joy of existence with his friends, his family, his community. He is sharing that life in all its fullness now. That is why we wear white today."

"Our sympathy goes out to the relatives," Father Netter concluded. "Our loss is great. But our consolation is also great because we know that Lou Netter was truly a Christian man. He is at peace. He knows now the really good news that life is worth living."

Top Surgeon Collapses, Dies

ELLENVILLE—Dr. Emmanuel Blumenfeld, 58, of Mount Vernon, the head of orthopedic surgery at Montefiore, Lebanon, and Bronx Hospitals in New York City, was pronounced dead on arrival at Ellenville Community Hospital last night, according to Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp. Blumenfeld, with his wife Hanna, was at Rubin's Mapleview Hotel in Kerhonkson with a group of folk dancing friends. After a swim, steam-bath, and dinner, he collapsed on the dance floor, according to Chipp.

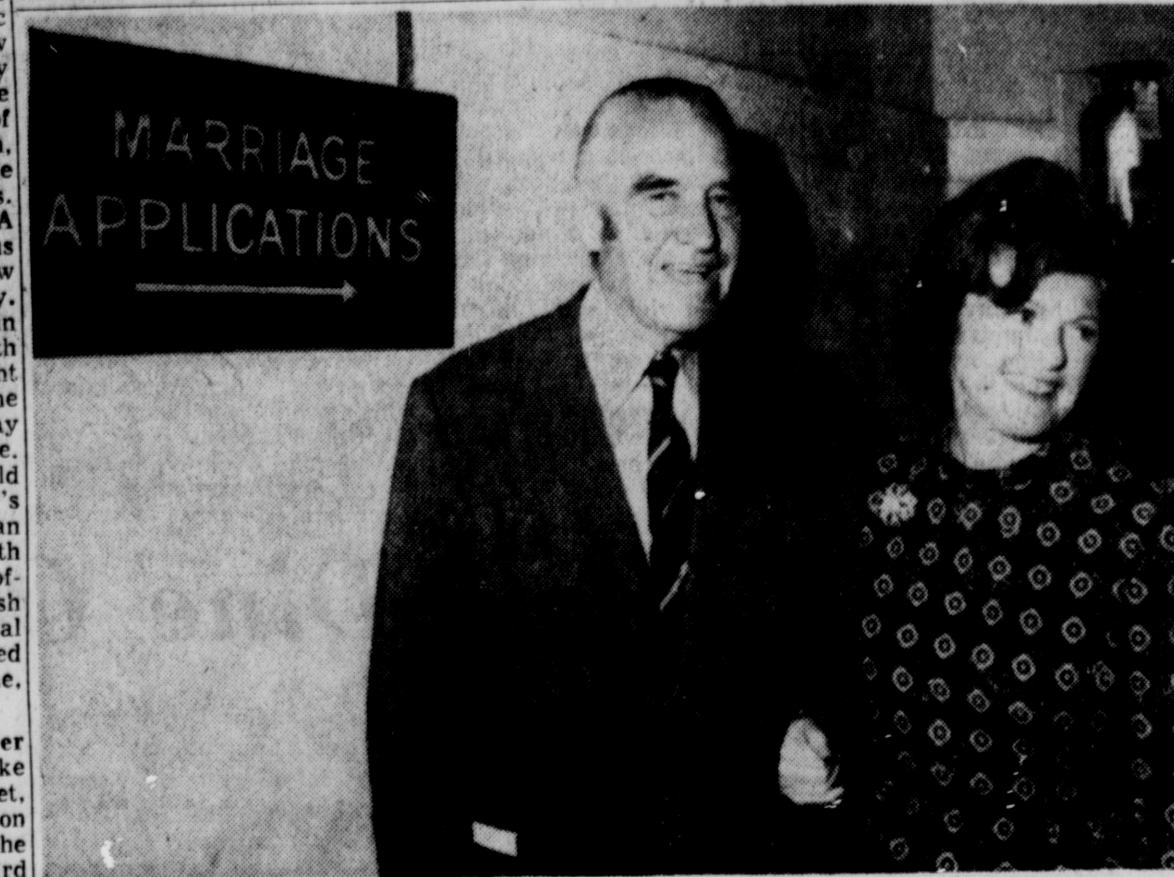

Last June he suffered an illness which placed him in the intensive care ward of Montefiore Hospital under the care of Dr. Paul Hurwitz, Chipp reported.

He was pronounced dead by Dr. Mansur Dahodwala. Chipp said death was due to natural causes. The investigation was made by Investigator Louis P. Grogan of the Ellenville State Police Barracks, in consultation with the pathologist's office in Kingston.

We wish to thank the staffs of the Kingston Hospital and the Ulster County Infirmary for the excellent care given, our many relatives, friends, and neighbors for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy shown us during our recent bereavement.

State Education Commissioner Declares Ph.D. Moratorium

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—State Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist declared a one-year moratorium Friday on the approval of all new Ph.D. programs in New York State.

Nyquist said he was taking the step because of the "deep concern over the expansion of doctoral programs in both public and non-public institutions in the face of evidence that present and future needs are now being met."

The rule will be binding since duplication must be avoided. Boyer noted that graduate enrollment at SUNY has increased from 17,725 in 1965 to more than 37,000 this year.

On Tuesday, Ernest L. Boyer, chancellor of the State University, announced a moratorium on expansion of all master's and doctoral programs throughout SUNY. Noting the cost and special nature of such programs, Boyer said excellence continues as the goal but "unnecessary duplication must be avoided."

During the past decade there has been a tremendous national expansion in doctoral education," Nyquist said. "This is largely the result of reaction to the launching of Sputnik and the subsequent feeling that this country was falling behind the Soviet Union in training scientific personnel."

"Educators are now questioning earlier forecasts of future needs," he said. "They now predict that the shortages which in fact, did exist at the beginning of the last decade, have been met — and that henceforth surpluses would occur."

Ten Years as City Assessor

Richardson to Retire Sept. 29

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Matthias G. Richardson, the city's assessor, will retire after almost 10 years of service on Sept. 29.

Richardson, known as "Mattie" at city hall was appointed to the position of city treasurer by former Mayor John J. Schwenk on Jan. 1, 1962. He was reappointed by Mayor Schwenk in 1964 and under the Raymond W. Garraghan administration moved to the assessor's office as the principal clerk in 1966. Mayor Garraghan named his assessor in January of 1967 and he was reappointed by Mayor Francis R. Koenig in January of 1970. "I am retiring as assessor with assurances in my own mind that my services to the city in the past 10 years were genuine, sincere and honest and it is with a feeling of regret that I will not be able to continue this association," Richardson told The Freeman. Richardson, who lives at 72 Grandview Avenue with his wife, Esther, is a native of Brooklyn. He graduated from Boy's High in Brooklyn and went on to a degree in international banking at the American Banking Institute at Rutgers University. He began his career with the Equitable Trust Company in New York City, later acquired by Chase Manhattan Corporation. Richardson advanced to the position of the foreign exchange department with Chase before moving to Kingston in 1943 to operate a trucking business with his brother-in-law. Active in civic work, he has been a member of the Lions Club of Kingston for almost 25 years and boasts a perfect attendance record for more than 23 years with that organization. He has served as treasurer and secretary-treasurer for 16 years with the Lions, a position he has also held as a member of St. John's Episcopal Church. Richardson, during his five years as city assessor, has been a student of his profession. "Inequities in tax procedures which condemn land improvements and encourage land speculation, have been one of my favorite gripes over the years," he told The Freeman. Richardson reasons that those "inequities" are rooted in American history where the premium was on land development but says that the result, nationally, now is that undeveloped land is assessed at 20 per cent of its true market value while single-family homes are assessed at 32 per cent. "Therefore," Richardson asserts, "land speculators deliberately keep land idle because of the low taxes. The homeowner, along with apartment and commercial property owners pay higher taxes on their improved land, in effect subsidizing the land speculators." Richardson contends that is the single largest factor in the "meteoric rise in prices" on single-family homes. Richardson, throughout his assessor career, has fought a running battle with the State Board of Equalization and Assessment which establishes Kingston's equalization rate. In 1968, Richardson reports, the state sampled a total of 211 properties out of the city's 6,757. "It is my belief that their sampling represents an incomplete picture and clearly shows a meager scratching of the surface," Richardson said. The lower equalization rate established from that survey has resulted in higher school taxes for city taxpayers. Richardson also contends that towns surrounding Kingston are "grossly underassessing" their commercial properties and that the State Board of Equalization should make a comprehensive review of the equalization rates in whole Kingston Schools Consolidated District. Richardson proposes that the school district itself should "re-examine consolidation and its burgeoning cost and further that in the future that the school board officially examine the assessment practices in the various political subdivisions of the school district." Richardson, who said he expects to be spending a great deal of his time at his summer home near Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, can look back on a number of accomplishments and innovations in the assessor's office during his tenure. During that period Richardson "reviewed the entire file on veterans exemptions and discovered that many ineligible exemptions were being used illegally." Increased several commercial accounts that had previously enjoyed an insufficient tax billing; I made a more realistic and proper increase which produced and added additional revenue; "While acting on behalf of the water department, obtained a rebate on improper assessments with towns having mains, pipes, etc. running through their taxable areas; "Personally handled more than 2,000 applications for senior citizens exemptions during the period 1967-71; "Assembled and inaugurated a card system that indicates in alphabetical arrangement the properties of each taxpayer in the city; "Called attention to the inadequacy of the sampling technique of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment." Richardson, in wrapping up his career, thanked Walter Donnaruma, the city's tax consultant, "for his cooperation in the past and in addition, I am grateful to my assistant, Walter Tatarzewski, for his services that have been rendered in facilitating the many clerical duties involved within the department."

Mayone Commander Of the Young Marines

John Ray Mayone, former executive officer of the Ulster County Young Marines, has been elected commanding officer to succeed Gilbert E. Gray who recently resigned that post. Gray said in a letter to John S. Zak, commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps, sponsors of the young marines units, that he resigned because of his recent election to the post of national senior vice commandant of the Marine Corps League, and he would be unable to fulfill the responsibilities and duties of commanding officer of the young marines.

The election of Mayone was made at a staff meeting attended by all officers of both companies of the young marines. Fred Harder of Lay Street, this city, was elected to the post of executive officer to succeed Mayone, and Louis Marelo of Lake Katrine was elected as commanding officer of Company A of Kingston. Vincent Ferraro of Glasco was reelected commanding officer of Company B of Saugerties.

Proposals to form additional companies of young marines in the areas of Ellenville, Highland, New Paltz and Onteora are under consideration. Other officers of Company A in addition to Marelo are Frank Bell, recruit officer, Peter Kearney, Bernie Augustine and Frank Pollaca. Company B officers include Eric Heidhausen, Wayne Gilbert, Robert Anderson, Kenneth Winters and Anthony Romeo. It was reported that Company B has resumed training sessions on Wednesday evenings at the Saugerties High School. Company A in Kingston will start fall and winter training sessions both companies, including a recruiting drive for each unit, within the next two weeks at the Kate Walton Field House Monday evenings. A full schedule is planned for both companies, including a recruiting drive for each unit, within the next two weeks at the Kate Walton Field House Monday evenings.

Ellenville Hospital Appreciative of Emergency Aid

ELLENVILLE — "We're never really aware of how much we depend on telephone service, until we don't have it," Evald Bors Koefoed, Ellenville Community Hospital administrator has revealed. "We were fortunate in the emergency which developed Tuesday morning to have Citizen Band radio volunteers provide an alternate communication system when the hospital phones were out."

The hospital phones were out of service from shortly after midnight until around 9:30 a. m. preventing both incoming and outgoing calls. Shortly after the situation was recognized, John Hicks, vice president of the Shawangunk 11 Meter Club, brought his Citizens Band radio equipped car to the hospital and volunteered his services. Outgoing calls from the hospital were then relayed by Hicks to the Citizens Band radio at the Tri County Tele-Message Answering Service where Les Wheeler was on duty. Wheeler then relayed the messages via phone or radio.

Incoming calls to the hospital received a continuous busy signal. In the case of several emergencies, callers receiving the signal called the police or the answering service. Their calls were then relayed to Hicks via radio.

At approximately 7:30 a. m., Koefoed noted, the telephone company sent in special units to relieve Hicks, and arranged an intercept for all calls coming to the hospital. At the same time the phone company worked to string in two temporary lines to the hospital. These were working by 9:30 a. m. and "the hospital returned to normal". "During the night, with the cooperation of the volunteers," Koefoed said, "the hospital was able to continue its normal routine of answering emergency calls and calling doctors."

"OPEN HOUSE" Celebration

THE BIG DIFFERENCE AT STANDARD

Standard made its "debut" in the capital area way back in 1901 . . . today . . . 70 years later . . . Standard enters "Debut 72" as the largest home furnishings organization in Upstate New York. There must be a reason . . . In fact there are 4 good reasons!

"Not One Cent For Credit"

First we protect you against heavy interest and carrying charges. There's never a charge for credit at Standard. When you buy at Standard, you pay only one price . . . the low cash price. If you wish to use a convenient budget plan, it's readily available without a penny extra cost. For example: If you buy $100 (furniture, appliances, floor coverings, etc.), you pay the cash price of $100; or you can pay $10 down leaving a deferred balance of $90; and then pay $10 monthly for 9 months with no added finance charge or annual interest percentage. Thus you save 12% . . . 15% . . . 18% interest and carrying charges.

"Do They Add It To The Price?"

O.K. There's no charge for credit at Standard but do "they add it to the price?" It's a fair question. And here's the answer: Standard sells at the lowest possible prices because we know that today's consumer is wise, and has many other places to shop; so to win her business we must give her the very best possible values. But don't take our word for it . . . COMPARE . . . Compare Standard prices, compare Standard value . . . THEN JUDGE FOR YOURSELF . . . Fair enough?

How can Standard sell for less? Well, honestly we're no magicians . . . we just work hard at being good merchants. We have a staff of 5 professional buyers who concentrate on the best values in furniture, carpeting, appliances, bedding, draperies . . . each a specialist in his own line. To aid these buyers, we are members of the 3 largest buying syndicates in the country who assist our buying staff in scouting the principal factories of the country.

"Suppose something goes wrong?"

For your protection, we operate our own service dept. with a staff of trained specialists. When you buy at Standard, you look to Standard to give you service, no one else. There's no middle man involved. Obviously our goal is to have every item delivered 100% . . . but in the event a difficulty develops, you can depend on Standard to make it good.

"What If I'm Not Satisfied?"

The sale is never complete at Standard until you are perfectly satisfied. "You must be pleased or your money back" has been the keystone of our policy ever since 1901. We're not out to sell you just one time . . . we want you as a steady customer. We're proud that we are now serving the third and fourth generations of some of our customers . . . who through the years have become good friends as well.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 25, 1971

Jack Anderson Says

Highway Lobby on the Attack

WASHINGTON — The highway lobby is dispatching "truth squads" to conduct what it describes as a "name-calling" campaign against the environmentalists. The lobby will use a false front, ironically, to spread its version of the "truth." A phony "Speakers' Bureau" will send out highway spokesmen, disguised as legitimate lecturers, to attack the ecology movement. Their speeches will be carefully written for them by the lobby. Its chief propagandist, John Gibbons, estimated in a confidential memo that "at least half a dozen different speeches" would have to be written. These canned speeches are supposed to provide a "hard-hitting, name-calling refutation of the current highway myths." The reason for naming adversaries, Gibbons explained, is to attract attention. "Only this invitation to controversy," he wrote, "can be expected to get the attention of the media which is desired."

The "truth squads" will be organized by the Highway Users Federation, a pressure group financed by the road builders, auto makers, oil firms, insurance companies and other highway interests. These pave-for-pay boys, known irreverently around Washington as the "road gang," want to build more highways, without too much regard for the scenery that lies in their paths. Highway Offensive. Owen Allen, the federation's field service chief, urged his regional representatives in a Sept. 10 memo to "line up as many speaking engagements and media appearances as possible" for the truth squads. Seventeen highway lobbyists are ready to hit the road as truth-squad speakers. They will concentrate on the cities where conservationists have been most effective at stopping the encroachment of highways and freeways. Among the cities the truth squads expect to hit are Atlanta, Chicago, Miami, New York City, Philadelphia and San Francisco. The campaign was outlined by Gibbons in a series of memos intended for the eyes only of the highwaymen. "Forces are building up," he wrote on Aug. 2, "both inside the Federation and outside which demand we do something big and now to counteract the constant bombardment of highway critics." He proposed "a massive 'truth squad operation,' which not only would send out speakers but would seek radio-television interviews "on a big scale." Press handouts would be issued, too, to discredit the ecology movement. In a later Aug. 30 memo, he suggested that the highway lobbyists should direct their name calling against environmentalists who talk about "air pollution; land use; destroying urban life; the evil highway lobby; housing dislocation; and assorted ecological (subjects) involving parks, wildlife, natural resources, etc."

FOOTNOTE: We spoke to Gibbons who said only that the language in his memos was "preliminary." He refused to tell us how much the highway lobby is spending on the truth-squad campaign. State Censorship The State Department has suppressed an effort by the widow of a career diplomat to build up a fund in her husband's memory. The diplomat, Charles William Thomas, killed himself last Easter Monday after he was fired without a hearing. He was dismissed under the "selection out" procedures because he hadn't been promoted for eight years. The fund, co-sponsored by the American Federation of Government Employees, former Justice Tom Clark and other prominent Americans, would provide legal defense for foreign service officers in their squabbles with the State Department.

State Secretary Bill Rogers routinely allowed notification of the creation of the Thomas Memorial Legal Defense Fund and a first appeal for contributions to go out on September 8th to 15 major U.S. diplomatic posts. The Federal Employees' Union paid all transmission costs. Unfortunately, a clerk at the union forgot to put the full address of the Thomas Fund in the cable. When the fund tried to send a correction, at its own expense, the State Department refused to transmit it.

We have learned that the refusal to send the vital correction can be laid at the door of Ambassador to Rome Graham Martin, an anti-union career officer. Martin protested that the fund was "nauseating" and was "defaming the memory" of the dead diplomat (although Thomas' widow is the driving personality of the fund.)

When Mrs. Thomas tried to send a paid telegram rebutting Graham through the State Department channels, the State Department refused to accept it.

The fund claims State's refusal to send the correction is censorship because State Department wires have been routinely open for 35 years to messages affecting the interests of all American citizens as long as the U.S. Government does not have to foot the bill. State claimed that the correction was refused because it would "cause administrative problems and create confusion."

Washington Sidelines Budget boss Charles Shultz confided to Republican congressional leaders at a secret strategy session that he faces a "severe budget problem" for the next fiscal year. At the same White House session, a pleased President Nixon boasted that he was administering the wage price freeze with only 4,500 employees. All of them, he said, had been on government payroll anyhow. In contrast, he claimed that a vast bureaucracy of 47,000 people administered price controls during World War II. Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., has shown some early symptoms of presidential fever even though he claims to be inoculated against the disease through 1972. He has been quietly butting up key Democrats around the country. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., displays on the door of his Senate office the South Carolina state seal, with the Latin inscription "Dum Spiro Spero" (While I breathe, I hope). Poor Thurmond has been obliged to explain to more than one offended constituent that the "Dum Spiro" is NOT Spiro Agnew.

What Kind of Center

With the glittering opening and all the attendant hoopla over, the public now can find out whether the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts is really a memorial to their 35th President that all Americans can use and enjoy or whether, as Columnist Jack Anderson described it, it is a "public works palace for the rich."

Already there are some disturbing signs that Mr. Anderson's evaluation may be correct. On opening night, for instance, the only way to get in was by invitation, and John Q. Public never had an outside chance. Certainly some of the prices for food and entertainment are out of the reach of most people. Tickets for the opening attraction, Leonard Bernstein's Mass, ranged up to $14. A reporter for the National Observer dined at one of the three restaurants, La Grande Scene, with his wife, and the tab came to $40. John Q. might also have some trouble with the menu here, if his knowledge of French cuisine is limited. The other restaurants are, however, scaled lower.

Cost of the center is estimated at $70 million, with at least $25 million coming out of public funds. In addition, Congress is being asked for $1.5 million for operating expenses for the first year. What the public would have to pay for annual support over the years is anybody's guess. It can be added here that a sizable number of citizens made private donations each in the thousands of dollars, and many of these were disappointed because they did not receive opening night invitations.

Certainly, the Kennedy center will not be another Lincoln Memorial, where many thousands of Americans, including school children, visit each year just to gaze at the imposing statue of the 16th President, seated in a chair, and read his Gettysburg Address. The Lincoln Memorial has become a sort of spiritual gathering place where many gain renewed strength to face life. Those Americans who have the same admiration for John Kennedy and perhaps would like to have visited his memorial in the same manner as to Abraham Lincoln's will be hard put to find the same atmosphere.

Another memorial to a President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, if it ever gets off the ground, will be more in the keeping of the Lincoln Memorial. It will consist of a series of upright slabs with some of FDR's best remembered messages and statements inscribed on them. It will have a rose garden motif, reviving memories of his famous Hyde Park home. Here, also on the banks of the Potomac—as is the Kennedy Center—Americans one day will gather to read what another wartime President had to say in trying times, much as they think of Lincoln's efforts to keep the Union together.

Those to whom shrines are built, unfortunately cannot have the final say in what theirs shall be. Their contribution is preliminary at best. We wonder what kind of a memorial JFK would have preferred.

Country Life

The vast majority of Americans now live in the cities and enjoy it less. Even suburban living has begun to pall.

A recent Gallup poll shows that 60 per cent of the residents of populous urban centers would prefer life in the country. The respondents revealed a growing disenchantment with suburbs as well as with large cities.

If these three in five people who yearn for life in the country act on their preference, it could create a counter revolution in this country.

Of the 6,000-odd places with populations of 2,500 or more, less than one-third have populations of over 5,000. This leaves at least 4,000 cities, towns and villages that are rural, that fit into the category of country living, and still provide opportunity for small manufacturing and commercial undertakings that should absorb the millions who want to return to the country.

In these days, when smog and traffic and crime take the pleasure out of big city living, a return to the country trend can be the saving of the nation in more ways than one.

Prayer in Schools

WASHINGTON — With 218 signatures — those of a majority of all members of the House — approving a "discharge" petition, Congress will be asked to pass and submit to the states for ratification an amendment to the Constitution permitting "nondenominational" prayers in all public buildings, including schools.

But who is going to determine what is a "nondenominational" prayer? Probably some governmental authority would have to do it, and this was what caused the Supreme Court to hold unconstitutional what it regarded as "prescribed" prayers when local or state governments gave schools the wording of the prayers that were to be used.

Many church organizations are opposed to any amendment which speaks of "nondenominational" prayers. They prefer instead "voluntary" prayers. A petition opposing the new amendment was sent to Congress last week by groups representing many religions. It said in part:

"We express the long-standing official position of the nation's religious faiths which affirm the adequacy of the first amendment to protect religious interest and to insure religious rights."

The proposed amendment, the petition also declared, would wrongfully allow government to determine both the place and content of prayer. The protesting groups added: "We affirm the right of school children or any other segment of the population to engage voluntarily in their own prayers without government authorization or supervision. This right is adequately protected by the First Amendment as it now stands."

The idea of voluntary prayers has long been advocated. They would take place in schools during a recess which would not necessarily include the whole student body in a single assembly. A period could be allocated to different groups applying for admission. Under such a plan, the school authorities would not have the right to compose the prayer or supply any prayer as "prescribed" or "authorized." The entire process would be voluntary.

Students of the same faith would gather in separate groups, and they would bring to the meeting copies of prayers obtained from their parents which could be said aloud or read silently during the recess period.

This method could have been held constitutional without an amendment, as nothing in it would have been prescribed by any federal, state or local government. But since the Supreme Court has decided that a "prescribed" prayer is unconstitutional, and school authorities hitherto used that form, many members of Congress feel it is advisable to have an amendment adopted which would specifically assure for the future the constitutionality of "nondenominational" prayers in the public schools.

One of the paradoxes of the controversy has been the fact that in public buildings prayers are offered on various occasions. In the Senate and House, for example, chaplains read prayers at the opening of each day's session. In a sense, these are voluntary prayers as nobody objects to them.

Because it was a matter of general knowledge that in Congress and state legislatures and in other governmental activities prayers have been uttered, even with some denominational activities prayers have been uttered, even with some denominational accept at times, there was widespread surprise that the highest court ruled similar prayers in public schools were a violation of the Constitution. The court decisions have made it clear that the First Amendment requires an absolute separation of church and state, and that educational institutions supported by government should not engage in any religious activities.

There will be controversy, of course, whether or not the amendment is adopted. It will be said that even voluntary prayer should not be carried on in the schools. But the big argument in answer is that nothing will be dictated by the school authorities and that students will be permitted to refrain from attending any session at which a prayer will be read.

While many children attend parochial schools, a much greater number attend public schools where they do not get every day reminders of morality and honesty and decent living which an emphasis on religion can give them.

The Saga of John Paul Jones

On September 24, 1779, our immortal sailor John Paul Jones aboard his Bon Homme Richard fought by moonlight, to his eternal renown, one of the most famous naval engagements in history.

He had named his ship in honor of Benjamin Franklin and Franklin's "Poor Richard's Almanac." Off Scarborough, England, with the vessels yardarm to yardarm for four tremendous hours, he battled, defeated and boarded the great British ship Serapis. And so it is that if the old Navy men could look down from some quarterdeck in the sky they would announce as their first heritage, as would all U.S. navy men yet begun to fight.

Jones' name was not Jones. It was John Paul. Born a Scotsman, he had killed the ringleader of some murderous crew members who had mutinied aboard his own merchantman on a voyage to Tobago. On the advice of the British government he disguised his name and left Tobago for colonial Fredericksburg, Va. (and an association with Patrick Henry) rather than await a long-delayed acquittal.

Our famous naval fighter, Stephen Decatur, said of naval hero James Lawrence: "He inspired all about him with ardor; he always saw the best thing to be done; he knew the best way to do it; and he had no more dodge in him than the mainmast." This was also Jones.

But two years after Jones' Bon Homme Richard victory, his reputation as a hero cost him dearly — and in, of all places, Russia. He was a small, bulldog of a man with arctic-blue eyes and rainbow blood in his veins, and he would find little new in Muscovite problems today, although his relationship with Catherine the Great may be widely forgotten. Thomas Jefferson and Jones were in Paris that spring. On Jefferson's advice, Jones traveled to Russia at the czar's invitation and became an admiral in the Russian navy.

Our Navy was in the doldrums. In fact, our early Republic laid down the keel of the great battleship New York and then constructed her with such leisure that she was burned in the stocks, still uncompleted, when the Confederates threatened the Norfolk Navy Yard about 50 years later.

Jefferson, exasperated and alarmed by the military alliance in our capital, urged his friend Jones to accept Catherine's offer of active sea duty so that he would not grow rusty in the event of another American war. Reticent and demure as Mae West, scented, jeweled, and her dark mustache lightly powdered, Catherine convened her court in a brilliant commissioning of Jones into her navy.

The Turks had the Russian fleet on the run in the vital Bosphorus. Jones proceeded to a Black Sea battle station near Yalta, no less. He put the strategic geography of the Bosphorus into motion and soon reversed the Turks' gains. But the cold spiders of embarrassment, panic and envy crawled down the back of Catherine's armchair admirals as the news of Jones' victories reached her court.

When he beat his way back to St. Petersburg the following March to confront her and to ask simple justice and support, the party was over. America's hero had served St. Petersburg's purpose. But not content with this, Catherine roared an attack against Jones' character and put him on formal trial on a trumped-up paternity charge that was patently a lie.

Jones faced the outrage with bared breast and indomitable resistance. He stayed on in Russia for seven long and frightful years trying unsuccessfully to achieve vindication.

Jones lived in various places abroad in retirement until he died at 45. When he passed away in Paris in 1792 he was buried there. But his grave and even the cemetery that contained it were forgotten for 113 years.

Then an American Ambassador to France, Horace E. Poeter, decided something should be done. In 1905 he made a systematic search for Jones' grave. Months later America was rewarded. The Ambassador found it in Paris' St. Louis cemetery under a rotting, twisted mass of overgrown foliage.

The remains of John Paul Jones were returned to the United States, escorted by a fleet of warships. The body came to rest finally in 1913 within the crypt of the beautiful chapel at Annapolis — our great Navy's first hero of our fighting fleet.

Iron Curtain Parley

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the final article in the series prepared exclusively for The Freeman by Miss Jeanne Gaffney of Kingston detailing her experiences in Europe this summer. As a representative of the Ismun Summer School, co-sponsored by International Student Movement of the United Nations and the World Federation of the UN, she attended a meeting of the Young Communist League of Europe in Budapest. This is an account of that session.

With the present controversy over political systems and the search for the perfect government, we sometimes forget that the people involved in any of these systems are still people. Youth have become deeply involved in demonstrations or increased awareness of the need of different courses taught in schools, young people are echoing the changing times.

As a representative of an international student body, I was asked to attend the European Conference of Second Day Schools. A regular Conference? Yes, with a possible distinction. It was about: better courses, more planned activities during the leisure hours and the need to involve youth more directly in and all of the conference participants were members of their country's associations. It was a novel experience to attend a conference of this sort.

To visit a Socialist Eastern European country is somewhat different than visiting other young people of high school age Western European countries. A visa is required and a certain amount of money must be changed to the host country's currency. This money cannot be changed back to either different currencies had, as he European or American currency goal of all of their projects the Eastern European countries principles. To someone involved in youth organization during the summer, the U.S. is high school in the U.S. the have become deeply involved in checking several times when entering and leaving these countries.

For all the differences in clothes, food and monetary values, the people are the same as found anywhere. The young people gathered together for the conference on secondary schools, spoke about many of the same problems as Kingston High for this, too.

Student Demands Count

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Say what you will about college student demands for "relevance" and "involvement," school curriculum changes this fall reflect these demands, reports a major higher education organization.

"Environmental studies are expanding at a rapid rate, and an increasing number of universities offer degrees in the various environmental sciences," said the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

The association surveyed its 117-member schools and also found: "More universities are inaugurating or expanding ethnic programs, with particular emphasis on Afro-American Indian studies."

"New colleges are being set up within a number of universities and new graduate and undergraduate degrees are widening the choices of students' majors at many institutions."

"There are substantial changes at some of the medical schools, including those which are shortening their programs by a year."

TEEN SCENE Lightfoot Traveling On

Probably no national boundary in the world is less confining than that between the United States and Canada. Hundreds of tourists pass casually over the border every week, radio and television transmissions are shared, postage stamps are issued jointly, and waterways are shared. It can come as a slight jolt, however, to find that Canada is unaware of some of the "favorite" American entertainers, and America is unaware of some of the stars of Canadian entertainment. Within the past year or so, America has "discovered" Gordon Lightfoot a Canadian singer. This would be roughly equivalent to the Canadians "discovering" Johnny Cash, the Band, or James Taylor.

If America is just discovering Gordon Lightfoot, it may be because Gordon had to come to America to discover himself. Born in Orillia, near Toronto, and brought up in Toronto, Gordon spent his teen years quite uncertain as to his direction in life. Perhaps fortunately, he was far more aware of what was not his direction — his participation in formal education and the usual teen rock bands came to an early end. He was into music strongly, but he couldn't take the idea of fitting into the Beatles—Monkees—Stones mold of long hair, electric guitars, groupies, and bubble-park publicity.

In an age when many young Americans were heading for Canada to get away from it all, Gordon Lightfoot headed for America for the same reason. He chose Los Angeles, which most Americans would not choose as a place to get away from anything, but perhaps they wouldn't be trying to get away from the same things he was trying to get away from.

The world of folk music appealed to the young singer strongly, and he began singing it in the college beer halls, coffeehouses, and bars where the California folk musicians gathered. His first attempts at writing his own music were far from successful, but they provided the ideas for songs that were later to earn him a small fortune and a lot of fame. Those who heard him recognized his talent, and steered him into professional channels, bringing him to the attention of recording studios, television executives, and agents.

The whole scene started reminding Gordon Lightfoot of the things he had left behind him in Canada — the commercialism and stresses that had been bad news for him and his music. Perhaps it reminded him of some of the good things about life in Canada, too. How he had found what it was that he wanted to do and be, so he returned to Canada to do and be it.

Once he returned to Canada, Gordon began to perfect the singing and writing style that has brought him to the edge of fame today. He did record one song at that time, but he felt instinctively that he was not ready for his step yet.

Not content to sing and record music written by other people, Gordon Lightfoot began working seriously at his songwriting, sharpening his entertaining skills, his timing and presentation by working in small bars, clubs, and coffeehouses on the Canadian folk music circuit, which gained new importance while he had been in America. The music he was performing there was little different from the songs he has on the hit lists now—he works now to improve, but not to change, his music.

American folk singers who had believed in Gordon Lightfoot continued to follow his development, and four or five years ago his name could be seen on the credit lines for songs performed by such American folk performers as Peter, Paul, and Mary. A few ahead-of-the-times disk jockies and record columnists in Los Angeles, New York City, and Boston were telling people to remember that Lightfoot name, which was already fairly well-known in Canada.

Not until he recorded "If You Could Read My Mind," however, did Gordon Lightfoot receive national attention in America. Typically, success reached him at a bad time—his marriage had just broken up, with his wife getting custody of their little boy. The bittersweet quality of Gordon's life is well-reflected in his songs.

Those who know Gordon Lightfoot well — and even those familiar with the cycles in his life—are predicting that the troubled young singer may be just about ready to split again. He is spending more and more time in England getting away from the chaotic aspects of success—seventy concerts a year, hours of fidgets in recording studios, and disorganized life on the road. With his marriage on the rocks, many of his friends expect that Gordon Lightfoot may chuck it all and head for London, to find new shadings for his music and new channels to direct his life into.

It Was Earl Weaver's Night

By NEIL WEISBERG
UPI Sports Writer

Manager Earl Weaver had every reason to celebrate. After all, it isn't every day that your team clinches the division championship and two members of your starting rotation join the 20-game winners circle. Weaver joined the rest of the Orioles in celebrating Baltimore's clinching of its third straight American League East championship. To add icing to the cake, Mike Cuellar and Pat Dobson each posted their 20th victory as the Orioles swept a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 9-2 and 7-0 Friday night.

"You didn't hear any cheers between games after we clinched the title but the boys really let loose after the second game," said Weaver, who was pouring champagne over his players in the post-game celebration. Cuellar and Dobson joined teammate Dave McNally as 20-game winners for the Orioles. If Jim Palmer, who has 19 victories, reaches the 20 game mark, the Orioles will become the first team in 51 years to boast four 20-game winners.

"I feel real good and I'm looking forward to the playoffs," said Cuellar, who reeled off his third straight 20-victory season.

"Heck, I had only two victories on June 1 and I never thought I would win more than 15 games this season," said Dobson who was acquired in an off-season deal with the San Diego Padres.

The Orioles will go for their third straight American League pennant when they meet the Oakland Athletics in the playoffs starting Oct. 2.

In other American League action, Milwaukee blanked Minnesota 1-0. Detroit whipped New York 3-5. Boston shut out Washington 4-0 and California edged Chicago 4-3. Minnesota at Kansas City was postponed because of rain.

In the National League, Cincinnati nipped San Francisco 6-5. Los Angeles blanked Atlanta 2-0. St. Louis topped Montreal 10-6. Pittsburgh edged New York 3-2. Philadelphia tipped Chicago 4-1 and Houston beat San Diego 2-1 in 21 innings before losing the second game 5-4.

Al Downing, the rejuvenated Los Angeles left-hander, became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career, scattering 8 hits to blank the Atlanta Braves 2-0 and move the Dodgers to within two games of the first-place San Francisco Giants, who blew a 4-0 lead against Cincinnati and were beaten by the Reds 5-5.

Downing, whose previous high was 14 victories in 1967 with the New York Yankees, shut out the Braves for the second time in five days. Willie Davis scored both Dodger runs, hitting his 10th homer in the fourth.

The Reds beat the Giants in the seventh when Lee May singled and Johnny Bench blasted his 27th homer.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente celebrated a special night in his behalf at Shea Stadium by driving in the eighth as the Pirates edged the Mets 3-2. Willie Stargell hit canny, has refused to consider moving the franchise and Atlanta's Hank Aaron for the NL lead.

After the vote, Rep. Joel T. Brophy, R-Va., wired Padres owner C. Arnold Smith and urged him to move to Washington.

But Smith, a banker who has numerous other interests including a tuna fleet and the cannery, has refused to consider moving the franchise and Atlanta's Hank Aaron for the NL lead.

Joe Mague's first career grand slam and his 16th homer of the season, carried St. Louis to the Houston-San Diego first game marathon lasted 4 hours, 12 minutes and was finally decided when Padres reliever Gary Ross walked in Jesus Alou with two out in the 21st inning. Clay Kirby went the first 15 innings for San Diego, striking

Colts Bank on Bulaich

By United Press International
The quarterbacks — Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall — were once synonymous with the Baltimore Colts' success.

But no more. A young man named Norm Bulaich and the defense must be the keys if the Colts hope to unlock a second straight National Football League title.

The Colts are five-point favorites on Sunday in a game against the Cleveland Browns.

Bulaich emerged from the first week of the season as the American Conference's leading rusher, carrying 22 times for 194 yards, and the defense was perfect in a 22-0 victory over the New York Jets. The only time the Jets got into Baltimore territory was when they recovered a fumble on the second half kickoff on the Colts' 27 and were forced to punt from the Colts' 48. Bulaich broke the club single game rushing record of 194 yards set in 1955 by Alan Ameche despite spraining his ankle in the first quarter, and he highlighted the afternoon with a 67-yard touchdown run.

Meanwhile, Baltimore's passing attack went for 69 yards. Morrall completed five of 13 for 78 yards, and Unitas, recovering from a ruptured Achilles tendon, came in for two series in the fourth quarter and threw for minus nine yards on one completion in three tries.

Cleveland also scored a shutout in its opener, 31-0 over Houston, and the Browns have scored all three of their victories at Baltimore in their seven-game series against the Colts. In their last meeting, Baltimore defeated Cleveland 34-0, for the 1968 NFL title.

In other games, Los Angeles is favored by 2½ points over Atlanta, Oakland is 2½ over San Diego, Washington is three over the New York Giants,

Dallas is 13 over Philadelphia, Minnesota is 13 over Chicago. San Francisco is 13 over New Orleans, Cincinnati is 6½ over Pittsburgh, Miami is five over Buffalo, Detroit is 10½ over New England, Green Bay is 2½ over Denver, Kansas City is seven over Houston and, on Monday night, St. Louis is 5½ over the Jets.

Los Angeles, its defense depleted when former coach George Allen took many Rams with him in his move to Washington, try to bounce back from a 24-20 upset by New Orleans last weekend. However, Atlanta is the surprise leader in the Western Division of the National Conference after beating San Francisco, 20-17.

Atlanta's Ray Berry completed 16 of 21 passes for 185 Fran Tarkenton came down yards and two touchdowns against San Francisco while the Rams' Roman Gabriel man-questionable starter against attempts for 164 yards against New Orleans.

Oakland is another team that must try to prove it can overcome an opening loss. The Raiders were stopped by Jim Plunkett's New England Patriots, and San Diego could provide even tougher opposition.

San Diego beat the Kansas City Chiefs, 21-14, behind quarterback John Hadl and running back Mike Garrett. In two meetings between San Diego and Oakland last year, there was only three points difference with the first game ending in a tie and Oakland winning 20-17, on a last second field goal by George Blanda in the second game.

The Giants' hopes for a second straight upset were dimmed when quarterback Fran Tarkenton came down yards and two touchdowns against San Francisco while the Rams' Roman Gabriel man-questionable starter against

KHS Booters Win, 4-0

KINGSTON — John Robinson achieved the soccer hat trick with three goals, as Kingston High's booters outlasted visiting John Jay 4-0 Friday for their second win in three starts and first Dutchess County Scholastic League victory.

Pete Boyd, who also had two assists, accounted for the other Maroon goal, getting the winners off to a 1-0 lead two minutes, 14 seconds after the opening kickoff.

"We should have had more goals," said Coach John Hunter, noting Kingston's wide margin of 19-5 in shots-on-goal. "We're moving the ball well on offense, but not taking advantage of all our opportunities."

Robinson's first goal at 13:54 of the first period was the result of a long cross sweep engineered by three players. Pete Fowler chipped to Boyd, who then fed to Robinson, who drilled the goal home.

Robinson's second goal was the result of some alert reaction when Alfalfa, the Jay goalie, tried to kick out a Kingston shot. Instead, the ball caromed off his chest and Robinson quickly followed up to slam it into the net. He completed his hat trick with another assist from Boyd at 7:28 of the fourth period.

Jeff Seeger, the Kingston goalie, had only six saves compared with Alfalfa's 15. The Maroons held an 8-2 edge in corner kicks.

Coach Hunter was impressed by the all-round performance of left fullback Ollen Olsen. "He had a very good game," said Hunter. "He did a good job of clearing, carrying the ball downfield and passing. It was a good omen for future games."

Junior Football Opener to Titans

The Titans of Kingston's newly-formed Junior Football League got their season off to a roaring start Friday night by crushing the Mercurys 25-0 at Dietz Stadium.

John Burris and Bruce Schnakenberg each had a pair of touchdowns to lead the winners' attack.

On an 80 yard field and with no kickoffs, the black-shirted Mercurys began the game with possession on their own 20-yard line. A tough Titan defense refused to budge, however, and the Mercurys were forced to punt. Burris returned the kick 38 yards, but three plays into the line resulted in a fumble and loss of possession.

The Titans got the pigskin back on downs, and this time Burris cracked off right tackle for the score.

In the second quarter the Mercurys tried again. Quarterback Don Van Loan got short yardage from Clark Waters and Bill Streeter, but it wasn't enough to sustain a drive. Again they had to punt, and again Burris got his hands on the football, this time for 35 yards and good field position before a gang of Mercurys hauled him down.

With third and twelve on the Mercury 16-yard line, Bryan Armstrong bulldozed up the middle to make it first and goal for the Titans. Schnakenberg sneaked it over for the score. The PAT failed again, and it was 12-0 Titans at the half.

At the start of the third quarter the Mercurys looked like a new ballclub. First the defense held the Titans to no gain. Then a rejuvenated offense, led by Waters and Charles Hoeing began ripping off the yardage.

The drive carried to the Titan 15 before the Red defense held. But the Titans couldn't move either. After a running play for no gain and two incomplete passes, Jerry Hart boomed a 40 yard punt to put the Mercurys out of range as the quarter ended.

Back on their own 10 the Mercurys started all over again.

Hoing, Streeter and Waters hanged out first downs until Titan Chris Nordstrom pounced on a fumble to kill the threat.

From then on it was all Titan football. Nordstrom took it around left end for a big gain, and Schnakenberg came back the other way for 16 yards and the score.

Despite a seven yard pass from Van Loan to Waters, the Mercurys were held again. It was Schnakenberg's turn for heroics this time returning the kick 35 yards. Then Burris scored his second touchdown of the night on a 20 yard sweep. The conversion made it 25-0 and the door was shut on the Mercurys as the clock ran out.

Bavasi Nixes Switch

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—San Diego Padres president Buzie Bavasi says he is sure he would reject any proposal to move his National League Baseball club to Washington, but he says to be polite he would listen to any overtures from the nation's capital.

Bavasi responded Friday to a Washington Post report that said he would listen to a proposal from Washington interested to move the Padres to the capitol.

"I said, yes, I'd listen," Bavasi said. "Of course, I'm not going to be rude."

But Bavasi said the idea of moving the Padres was "stupid."

"We turned down an offer from Dallas-Ft. Worth months ago," he said.

Bavasi also said his club "listened to a proposal from the people of Toronto, but that doesn't mean we're moving."

The question of a San Diego move was raised after American League owners voted 10-2 last week to approve relocation of the Senators in Arlington, Tex., a Dallas suburb.

After the vote, Rep. Joel T. Brophy, R-Va., wired Padres owner C. Arnold Smith and urged him to move to Washington.

But Smith, a banker who has numerous other interests including a tuna fleet and the cannery, has refused to consider moving the franchise and Atlanta's Hank Aaron for the NL lead.

It's the Finale At Monticello

MONTICELLO in 2:01.3, a new lifetime mark. It was a very good year at Monticello. Attendance was up. The handle was up and so were the purses. The quality of racing was at an all-time high. This evening's farewell feature, a $4,000 AA/A Handicap Pace, stands as an ideal example.

Between them, the four stallions and four mares and one gelding have won 47 times this year. Seven boast double figure seasonal earnings and combined they've grossed $108,312. The largest money maker in the field is Gerald Prino's steady 6-year-old gelding, Bye Bye Bret. He's earned $16,615 on five firsts, two seconds and four thirds this year. His 2:02.4 clocking this summer at Yonkers is the fastest half mile recorded in the 8-horse field.

The fastest mile this season, however, belongs to Jack Quinn's 4-year-old D and F. The Dale Frost bay was a big victor at Vernon Downs' 1/4 mile track in-the-money finishes in 18 starts, making his final Mighty M start in the fifth race co-feature.

Jim Reinhardt, Gino Ventriglia, Karl Liekoski and Karl-Peter Menzildjian round out the lineup. Andy Piehler and Roger Edwards are the subs.

In other games, Passaic is at College Point; Dox at Brooklyn, Newark at Haledon and Austria at Hoboken.

Player-Coach Henry Ingber will field a mixture of veterans and rookies. Fernando Nasmyth, Klaus Weber and Sig Samuelson, members of Ulster County Community College's soccer team, will not be available for the first half of the 1971-72 season.

Veteran Reiner Schwebel returns to the lineup and the Kickers will introduce a new outside right, Karl-Peter Menzildjian. Echwebel, one of the Kickers' all-time greats, will remain with the team until the college season is completed.

Soccer Growing At RVC

STONE RIDGE The sport of soccer continues to grow. Its newest "sprouting" ground is Rondout Valley High School where the first varsity team in Gander history is ready to compete.

Inexperience, interest and enthusiasm are the words to describe the squad which meets New Paltz here in Monday afternoon's opener. Forty hopefuls turned out for Coach Andrew Lutz' first practice earlier this month looking to gain a berth with the team.

Rondout did have organized soccer for the past two years in the form of a club and played New Paltz and Coleman in scrimmages. Returning from that squad are seniors Jim Schaeffer (whose brother is the New Paltz State winger Bernie), Ed Barry, Mike Botsakos, Jim Meigel, Gary Kraft, and Walt Zaharchuk. Juniors Mark Barthele, Bill Taylor, Ron Hunlock, and De Cahill played as reserves.

New men on the roster are Jay Schaeffer, Bill Kochlin, Tom Barry, Guy Kosonen, Dave Smith, and Mark Kossuth.

The Ganders are tentative members of the DUSO League and have a ten game schedule.

Poster Exhibit

The Vassar College Art Gallery will feature an exhibit and sale of posters, collected by Philip Granville of Lords Gallery in London, on Monday, Sept. 27.

A native of Paris, Granville went to England during World War II, served in British Intelligence and then settled in London. He has been an art dealer since 1952.

For more than ten years he has been interested in acquiring rare, old, original posters. For him, posters, apart from their artistic merit and their rarity value as antiques difficult to obtain, have a social interest. His collection, amounting to about 1,000, has often provided writers of history and the BBC television with documents to illustrate historical events (the Russian Revolution) or customs and fashions (The Gay '90s).

The exhibit will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Nell: Stand Up for Your Rights

DEAR ABBY: Nell, a very dear friend of mine, 63, recently lost her husband. Nell has a well-to-do aunt (85) who invited her to come and live with her and be her companion. Auntie lives in a beautiful apartment with a fulltime housekeeper. Auntie has a daughter living with her. The daughter is 60 and also widowed, and Auntie and Daughter can't be in the same room for 20 minutes without fighting.

Well, Nell moved in with Auntie and things were going splendidly until Daughter fired the housekeeper and informed Nell that SHE was to be the housekeeper!

Now poor Nell is breaking her back over there with all the work in addition to being referee for Auntie and Daughter. Nell is rather on the timid side and has asked me to help get her out of that situation without getting Auntie angry with her. (Nell is not destitute.)

I am considering playing "sick" and sending for Nell to "nurse" me for a few weeks, after which she can tell Auntie she is not returning.

My husband says if I try to pull a stunt like that I am out of my mind. What do you think?

NELL'S BEST FRIEND
DEAR FRIEND: I'm with your husband. Tell Nell to remind Auntie that she was invited to be a "companion," not a housekeeper, and since the picture has changed, she's leaving.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, CAL. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, CAL. 90069, for Abby's Booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

On Pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Of the 35 alleged polluters cited by the Environmental Protection Agency Thursday night, four are in New York State.
They are Clermont Fruit Packers, Hudson, Columbia County; Foster Wheeler Corp., Dansville, Livingston County; and plants of U.S. Steel's Universal Atlas Cement Division at Cohoes, Albany County, and at Hudson.
The EPA asked the Justice Department to prosecute the firms on grounds they failed to apply for permits to continue discharging wastes into waterways. It was the first such action under an 1899 law requiring permits for discharges into navigable waters.
The deadline for permit applications was July 1. The EPA said the 35 plants were among thousands which have not yet filed, and the first of these for which EPA had gathered evidence of discharges.
John Quarles, assistant EPA administrator for enforcement, said the U.S. Steel plants filed applications but did not sign them correctly.

Firemen responded to an alarm at 11:10 a.m. Friday after fire was reported in the chimney of a two-story and attic frame dwelling occupied by Eugene Dillon and family on West Pierpont Street.
On arrival firemen saw heavy smoke billowing from the chimney. Engine 3 laid and charged two 1½-inch hoses but they were not used. The fire was extinguished with chemicals and dry powder. Firemen in charge of Deputy Hugh Greer checked the roof and chimney. The probable cause was an overheated chimney.
Engines 1 and 2, Truck 1 and Rapid Hose and Wicks Salvage units went to the scene. Some smoke damage was reported on the first and second floors of the house owned by Kingston Housing Authority.

State Conservationists Call For Federal Aid

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A spokesman for the New York's Environmental Conservation Department said Friday the state wants the federal government to pay 80 per cent of the costs of reseeded forest land that has been cut.
Forester Victor Glider of the department told a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing here the state opposes legislation that would require land owners to pay the cost of reforesting land that has been cleared in lumbering operations.
The hearing was called to hear testimony on two separate bills. One, by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., would strictly mandate and regulate forest management and would severely limit the practice of "clear cutting" entire stands of trees.
The other bill would have the federal government encourage reforestation by splitting the costs with the land owner on a fifty-fifty basis. It was introduced by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., who presided at the public lands subcommittee hearing at the State University College of Forestry here.
Glider said New York State supports the Hatfield measure, but wanted the federal-private ratio to be changed to 80-20.
The Hatfield bill also was endorsed by paper and lumber companies, and forestry groups. One of their spokesmen argued that "clear cutting" of forest lands makes it easier for new, young seedlings to survive. Selective cutting leaves large trees that contend for air, water, soil and space with the weaker seedlings, it was argued.

Spokesmen for a variety of conservation groups—including the Adirondack Mountain Club, the Sierra Club and the National Audubon Society—argued in favor of the stricter Metcalf measure. They contended that private landowners have destroyed forests and caused erosion and water-drainage problems by their lumbering practices.
Donald Federman of Syracuse, spokesman for the Adirondack club, said his group favors the stricter Metcalf bill because the forest industry has not done an adequate job of timber management in the past. "If anything, the need for legislative control has become more acute," he asserted.

Your Horoscope

Sunday, September 26

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Show you are willing to do what is right by everyone in p.m. Use wisdom.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You had better get busy and handle that work ahead of you, otherwise it will be much harder later on. A fellow worker is not in a good mood now. Contact at a later date for whatever it is that you want to discuss.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Yesterday's fun cannot be continued today since your planetary positions have changed; so keep poised. Ideas come to you that are best forgotten since they could get you into trouble. Rest up for an early start tomorrow.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take care you do not let those who live with you in any way, shape or manner, so get yourself under control early. Ask for their advice instead. Do something of a thoughtful nature as well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can comprehend better now what is expected of you by others and if you are tactful with them, all can work out much better for everyone. Drive with utmost care and have respect for others as well. Think logically.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't think that everything you want can be bought with money. Rely on your sense of fair play now and good principles. Show others you want harmony in all things and act in a diplomatic manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are apt to use your ability of shooting straight at the mark to get yourself in trouble today if you do not watch out. It is better to keep quiet than say unkind things. Your philosophy of life is fine, so carry through along such lines.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show you have patience though there may be limitations to deal with today. Help others with their problems and gain their affection. Your intuition is not working right, so forget it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Await a better day for contacting friends you like and work on whatever is important to your well-being now. Social matters could get you into trouble today, anyway. Don't risk being criticized.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Await better astrological aspects before getting into wordy matters and concentrate on whatever is of a personal nature now. Don't take risks with your reputation. Stay sober and all is fine.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those restless young people who want to get ahead very fast, but you must teach patience early or your child could just dive into one project after another without much success and drop one after the other. Make sure that the education given is a good, practical one and teach to complete one job before going on to another. Then this becomes a successful chart. Philosophical studies while young are important here.

Monday, September 27

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you exercise care in travel this is certainly a day and evening when you want to put your affairs on a secure structure, but you get no encouragement from those in a position to help. You would be wise to engage in activities stated as good for your own sign. If in doubt today or tonight, be tactful, gentle.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure you know where you stand where government, family and vocation are concerned. Make the changes that are necessary. Handle an affair cleverly that came up unexpectedly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have sound ideas for improving your position in life, but don't act too hastily, or you get into trouble. Every phase should be studied well. Show that you have wisdom.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't postpone a responsibility you have to meet. Attend to it enthusiastically and do a good job. Maintain your health in tip-top condition. Get more done than usual. Relax in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A superficial associate wants you to drop important work and go off on a tangent, so decline. Keep promises made to others. Put fundamental affairs in order.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Come through with work you have promised if you want to please higher-ups now. Stop procrastinating. Take better care of your clothing. A rip could be quite costly. Go to bed early tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take a raincheck on an invitation since you have too much important work to get out first. Avoid taking chances with finances. Study your bank balance well. Show that you have poise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Instead of forcing own views on kin, listen to what they have to suggest and help them to achieve goals. Get at the basic cause of things for the best results. Avoid any arguments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for October is now ready. Critical Look at New Shows HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Accepting the fact that there is no really exceptional new series in the fledgling network television season, we can still look for those that offer harmless diversion and there are a few. Most of the reviews I have seen of Shirley MacLaine's new half-hour ABC series, "Shirley's World," in which she plays a globetrotting photojournalist, have been negative. I accept the view that the show isn't great and I never expected much, but I find Miss MacLaine very attractive and pleasantly earthy for a series performer, and so I will tune her in every so often.

I also like William Conrad, who plays the fat private eye in CBS' "Cannon" series, and even though the show is strictly routine, I will probably give him an occasional look too. I was also surprised at finding Anthony Quinn easy to take as a mayor in the ABC series "The Man and the City," and, once again, though the show is not at all exceptional, I will probably peek at it to see how he's doing.

James Garner knows what television is all about—low key in its best approaches to the audience—and so he's at his old stand-on video as a hero who doesn't really care to be one. The show is NBC's "Nichols." He plays a sheriff, and it's okay for a desperate night.

Since I don't care much for Don Adams' brand of humor, despite his unquestionable professionalism, I can't seem to warm up to his new NBC comedy series, "The Partners," about a couple of fumbling detectives, one white, the other black. But I won't deny that the opener had some funny sight gags, and if the dialogue can reach a civilized level of humor, it may well be worth a look.

CBS has a definite star in Sandy Duncan of the "Funny Face" show, but the opening episode, which cast her as an unwilling dupe in used car television commercials, had a shoddy setting for a new headliner, and the material will have to improve.

I'd like to enjoy NBC's new Jimmy Stewart Show, in which he plays a professor, but the opener was overly soft in establishing this character. Glenn Ford is pleasant as a sheriff in "Cade's County," but the CBS show is ordinary fare.

Material is the key to the new Dick Van Dyke series on CBS, which started with a so-so episode about him falling back into the smoking habit. And, with some decent scripts, Tony Curtis and Roger Moore might be diverting as the adventurers they portray in ABC's "The Persuaders." Scripts are naturally the key, as well, for the new "Movie of the Weekend," 90-minute teleplays on ABC.

As light entertainment, I liked Peter Falk as a disheveled but shrewd police detective in "Columbo," a periodic show on the new "NBC Mystery Movie." The most enjoyable show I saw in the premiere week was NBC's "Once Upon A Dead Man," a lighthearted adventure tale which kicked off another periodic series, "McMillan & Wife," with Rock Hudson as San Francisco Police commissioner and Susan Saint James as his mate.

This show had a nice, low key, rambling quality to it, with a lush look (Hollywood's fixed view of San Francisco, stemming from an incurable inferiority complex), and Hudson and Miss Saint James were just delightful together. There was also a terrific bicycle chase down San Francisco's steep streets. As I say, nothing to write home about, but diverting enough for light television entertainment.

North's jump to four hearts is a very modern gadget known as a super-splinter bid. The hearts would have been a round force in the system used by North and South. It would be a prosaic bid designed to show hearts as well as diamonds.

Three hearts would be splinter. It would establish spades as the final trump suit and show one heart. Thus, if hearts was a super-splinter and showed no hearts.

This is a dangerous bid to try with a new partner, but safe if you are sure your partner will know the meaning.

After the super - spinn South went into Blackwood. Partner's responses accounted for all aces and kings out of the heart suit but South settled for the small slam.

South won the trump lead with his hand and studied the situation carefully. "There are so many ways to make this contract," he remarked. "I will look silly if I go down."

After that peroration he ruffed one heart in dummy; he led a diamond to his ace; a second

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

THE GARAGE—"Nothing's ever simple about urban renewal," muttered one of our city fathers following Thursday night's "informational meeting" on the uptown parking garage.

As it turned out, the aldermen got more information than they bargained. This garage deal is not all that simple, after all.

It had been widely presumed that the city was to take over control of the garage after the Oct. 5 meeting of the Council. The land under it was another matter, to be worked out two years from now at the closeout of the city's two urban renewal projects, a timetable we very much doubt will be reached.

Control had been assumed to mean ownership. But such is not the case. The city and the urban renewal agency have evolved a scheme to save the city the cost of the land.

Under the present proposal, the urban renewal agency will retain ownership of both the garage and the land. The city, in effect, will be leasing the garage from the agency, as far as it is known, at no charge. By delaying city ownership the agency saves the city of laying out between $26,000 and $37,000 for the land. Those figures are the result of independent appraisals.

The transfer will take place at the closeout of the projects at which time non-cash credits will be figured.

The agency assures the city that it will have enough non-cash credits to cover any cash outlays at that time.

It is indeed a neat little scheme. We just wonder if the federal government is going to go along with it.

THE ASSESSOR—It appears that not many of the aldermen are too worried about the state's Oct. 1 deadline on the Common Council's appointing an assessor board of review. The council doesn't meet until Oct. 5 in regular session.

Special sessions are anathema to the aldermen. They have enough committee meetings as it is. Or so one city official put it Thursday night. "We're sick and tired of these special sessions. Anyway, what's the state gonna do if we don't appoint that assessor board by the deadline? Come down and arrest us all?"

Probably not, but maybe sometime in the future somebody may take the city to court on a decision by that assessment board of review and argue that the board was illegally constituted because it was appointed after the state deadline.

THE CHAIRMAN—Jimmy McCordle breezed to victory by a 96-15 vote over Frank Adams for the Democratic County chairmanship on Saturday night, thus realizing a long dream.

It was described as an election with "no blood-letting at all," an indication that either the Democrats have bled themselves dry from intraparty battles or they've finally come to their senses.

It's probably a combination of both. A total of 111 committeemen voted on Saturday night out of a possible total of about 240. A party that can't even get its committeemen out to vote is in dire straits. Of course, one must keep in mind that the Democrats have almost as many committee vacancies as they have committeemen.

But, all in all, the feeling was one of optimism following Saturday night's election. McCordle, spoke eloquently, sincerely and with reason.

We found one of his statements particularly fitting: "We will concentrate on a structured publicity campaign geared to complete year-round campaigning and not just limited to a month or so before election," McCordle declared. In other words, it is the duty of the opposition to oppose, all the time. We hope McCordle follows through with at least that promise.

POLITICS—Slowly, ever so slowly, the political season is descending upon us, with Election Day five weeks from Tuesday. Word is that Bob Murphy, the Republican-Conservative candidate for mayor may make a public statement sometime within the next two weeks.

Murphy's last public statement came when he was nominated in June. At the time the former police chief admitted it would be an uphill battle against the incumbent Frank (Landslide) Koenig. Late starts make that hill just a bit steeper.

Koenig, along with his running mate, Bob Gallo, the alderman-at-large, are off to the races. Bumper stickers, with "Elect the Team" are much in evidence and Gallo sticks a Koenig-Gallo pin on anything that moves.

Billboards went up earlier this week with the slogan: "The challenges of tomorrow need the experience of today." The photos of the two hopefuls are somewhat dated, Koenig's dating from at least two years ago before his hair turned grey. Gallo's must be a decade old. But, it's the message that counts. Murphy's may read: "Vote for a real hill-climber."

EASY ED—That's a nickname sometimes attached to Ed Norton, the majority leader of the Common Council. It's in reference to the way Ed usually wins elections in the 11th Ward... Easy.

The last time around the Republicans didn't even put up a candidate against Norton, endorsing Mrs. Helen Radakovich, the Conservative. Third party candidates, regardless of who endorses them, rarely win local elections.

This time, it seems, Easy Ed is in for a not so easy run. Herb Sutton, the Republican-Conservative candidate, who the Democrats wrote off as strictly a "ticket-filler" is out there "pounding the pavement." The last phrase translates into "door to door" and its about the only way an aldermanic candidate can get elected.

And Sutton isn't doing it alone, we are told. He's going around the ward with a camera taking pictures of what he thinks are neglected areas in the ward. It makes his door to door visits all that more interesting. It should also make that 11th Ward aldermanic race very interesting.

Israel Warns Egypt—Will Strike Back If...

By United Press International
Israel warned Egypt it would strike back if Egypt carries out any further breaches of the Suez Canal cease-fire.

Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, Israeli chief of staff, said in a television interview the latest series of incidents along the Suez waterway could have led to another war. But he said the Egyptians apparently believed the resumption of shooting was "impractical" for them.

Bar-Lev said Israel a week ago retaliated for the Egyptian downing of an Israeli transport over the Sinai Desert, which took the lives of seven of the men aboard.

"The object of the action... very hard, but we did not want was to clarify to Egypt that we shall not let future violations of the cease-fire ride without an appropriate reaction," the chief of staff said.

He also acknowledged Israel used U.S.-made Shrike missiles when they struck at Egyptian missile sites along the Suez. He said Israel had the Shrike missiles, but did not flatly state they had been used in the Saturday retaliatory attack, as the Egyptians have claimed.

Bar-Lev said that "Israel last week was ready for a further development that could have brought about the resumption of the Middle East War. We could have hit the Egyptians very hard, but we did not want to blow up the incidents."

Trying to Steal Data Claim Sources Britain Ousts Reds

LONDON (UPI) — Some of the 105 Soviet officials ousted from Britain for spying were trying to steal technical data on the Anglo-French Concorde Supersonic Airliner (SST), diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said the agents were trying to get information on such things as electronic devices, computers and aircraft engines.

(In Australia, the Melbourne Herald quoted a British Foreign Office official in London as saying the Russians had made a "massive effort" to crack top-level security at the British Aircraft Corp. (BAC) plant at Bristol, where British development on the Concorde is underway.)

Sir Denis Greenhill, permanent undersecretary in the Foreign Office, conveyed the government order expelling 90 Soviets and barring another 15 who are out of the country from returning to Britain to Soviet Charge D'Affaires Ilya Ippolito. Ambassador Mikhail Smirnovsky is temporarily out of Britain.

A Foreign Office statement said the expelled officials, whose names were not given, were concerned with "intelligence activities" representing "a direct threat to the security of this country."

The government said it acted on the basis of information supplied by a Russian Secret Police (KGB) agent who recently defected to Britain. Neither his name nor his whereabouts were made known. The persons asked to leave included embassy officials, staff members of a Soviet trade mission in London, and persons attached to other Soviet organizations here.

The Foreign Office order effectively cut from 550 to 445 the number of Soviet personnel in Britain. It also stipulated that each time a diplomat or official is expelled for spying from now on, the number permitted in his category will be reduced by one.

Diplomatic sources said the Foreign Office "will not be surprised" if some of the 78 diplomats and officials at the British Embassy in Moscow are expelled from the Soviet Union in retaliation for Friday's move.

Plans for Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home to visit Moscow early next year may also be affected by this week's incident, diplomats said.

In any case, he can expect a bitter exchange with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko when they meet next week at the United Nations in New York, they added. But they said Soviet desire for a European Security Conference, plus hopes of completing the Berlin agreement, could take much of the sting out of any tough Soviet reprisals.

Sources said it was common knowledge in government circles that the Soviets have made great effort in recent months to obtain full technical details of the Concorde and the Rolls-Royce Olympus 593 engines which power it. The Soviet supersonic jetliner, the TU144, has reportedly been having numerous technical difficulties.

Moscow Speaks About Mystery

Problems in Red China

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union says Communist China is trying to shift the blame for the difficulties in the country onto the throes of "grave political developments" and is trying to conceal them by spreading fears of an imminent Soviet invasion.

Moscow spoke its first word about the mystery of what is happening in Peking with a commentary published Friday night by the official Tass news agency.

"One thing is clear," Tass said. "A number of grave internal political developments are affecting the general situation in the People's Republic of China these days ..."

"The Chinese leadership ... is trying to shift the blame for the difficulties in the country onto the throes of "grave political developments" and is trying to conceal them by spreading fears of an imminent Soviet invasion.

The Soviets also said the Chinese were attributing the cancellation of the Oct. 1 Revolutionary Day Parade to the need for war preparations.

Tass said this information came in news reports from Peking, but no report reaching Moscow supported it.

"According to journalistic circles in Peking," Tass said, "the calling off of the National Day Parade is explained to the country's population by references to the alleged threat to China on the northern frontiers, where an attack on Chinese territory is allegedly planned."

The Soviet agency concluded: "In short, this is nothing less than a new attempt to fan up anti-Soviet sentiments in the population and ... a campaign with the slogan 'Prepare For War' is being activated."

The cancellation of the Oct. 1 parade and other unusual activities in China provoked worldwide speculation the nation is experiencing a major political crisis.

Much of the speculation has centered, without substantiation, on the possible ill-health or death of chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The Soviet commentary did not mention Mao nor did it elaborate on what the "grave developments" might mean.

Before the Tass dispatch, newsmen and diplomats in Moscow had noted that the months-old press campaign of attacks upon China had fallen suddenly quiet. Nothing of import had appeared since the Mao rumors started.

The vilification campaign started shortly after it was announced President Nixon would visit Peking.

$200 Million Estimated Cost

Rocky Seeks Prison Reforms

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The aftermath of the Attica state prison rebellion focused attention on prison reform Friday, with Governor Rockefeller calling for "radical" changes and other state officials pledging improved conditions for guards and inmates.

At the prison where 41 lives were lost in the rebellion and its violent end, the restoration of visiting hours was interpreted by officials as a sign of a return to normalcy.

But state law enforcement officials and attorneys for the inmates were locked in another court battle over the manner in which prisoners are to be interrogated about the revolt.

Governor Rockefeller said at the dedication of a new State Bar Association headquarters here that the violence at Attica "is another symptom of the deep-seated illness of our society."

"We can no longer delay in making radical reforms in our whole system of criminal justice—from the problem of protecting the rights and dignity of innocent citizens on the streets and in their homes through effective crime prevention and a breaking of the log-jam in the courts; to protecting alike the on inmates and prison guards," Rockefeller said.

The governor said he estimated that the cost of physical changes in the state's prisons—not including other reforms needed—would run close to $200 million.

Rockefeller gave few specifics of his plans for prison reforms, but some of the first changes that are likely to come were outlined in a statement drafted by state corrections officials in reply to a list of grievances issued by prison guards.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents the correctional officers, has threatened to take job action Oct. 7 unless its grievances are dealt with.

Representatives of the union met for eight hours Friday with state officials, and afterwards the state issued an outline of the steps it is taking in response to the guards' demands for better conditions for officers and inmates.

The statement declared that work release, evening education, recreation, counseling and other special programs are to be expanded in the prisons. It said that plans are being drawn up for law libraries, community treatment and volunteer programs. "Clothing and personal hygiene issues to inmates are being revised," the statement added.

The state also pledged to begin hiring more prison guards and to initiate in-service training for correctional officers.

The program will include training in riot control, firearms and self-defense, as well as study of the sociological and behavioral traits of modern inmates.

A spokesman for the union said the guards' representatives were "disappointed" but not totally dissatisfied with the state's response to their demands. Another meeting is scheduled for Monday.

In Buffalo Friday, a federal judge ordered state officials to show cause why all interrogation of the 1,240 inmates still at Attica prison should not be ordered stopped. A hearing of that order is set for Monday before U.S. District Judge John T. Curtin.

The order is being sought by several attorneys for inmates. They contend that the interrogations should stop because state attorneys have more freedom to talk with inmates than do the prisoners' lawyers, rights and dignity of both pris-

Disengagement Program Check

U.S. Experts to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the American program of disengagement from Vietnam entering a critical phase, the White House sent a special team of experts to that country to make an on-the-spot assessment of military and political conditions.

Administration officials said today that President Nixon, mindful that his predecessors sometimes were misled by overly optimistic predictions from the field, authorized National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger to dispatch a dozen experts from his staff to double-check reports received through regular channels.

The group is headed by Brig. Gen. Alexander M. Haig, Kissinger's deputy. He met Thursday with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker.

Others in the group are fanning out across the war-torn nation to review the progress of the "vietnamization" program—the plan under which South Vietnamese forces are taking over all ground combat functions from the departing Americans.

The survey team also is reassessing field intelligence reports on North Vietnamese and Viet Cong military strength, troop deployment and possible intentions in the field. The President is understood to be anxious to have the most up-to-date information before deciding in mid-November on further troop withdrawals. American ground forces are scheduled to total 184,000 by Dec. 1.

Officials said the situation had become particularly difficult to evaluate because of the political dissatisfaction that has spread after events that left Thieu unopposed on the ballot in the Oct. 3 presidential election. The political turmoil, coming at a time when further troops withdrawals will have increasing psychological impact, add up to a situation which requires the greatest caution in determining the next moves, officials said.

They have been keeping a close watch on Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, who is said to be stirring up Vietnamese army veterans to demonstrate against the one-man presidential contest. Ky is believed to be trying to effect coordination with radical students and other elements embittered since Ky and Gen. Duong Van Minh, a former premier, pulled out of the race with allegations that Thieu had rigged the election.

While Ky is said to be trying to enlist Minh in protesting the election, Minh has appeared reluctant to become an active participant in any organized agitation.

Officials here said that the dissatisfied elements have failed so far to secure any backing from the army generals whose loyalty is necessary if Thieu is to resist any efforts to oust him.

More Protective Reaction Raids

SAIGON (UPI) — American jets crossed the border into North Vietnam today to bomb anti-aircraft gun batteries in the fifth consecutive day of what the U.S. command calls protective reaction raids.

The Viet Cong in turn increased their rocket and mortar attacks in South Vietnam and Cambodia. At least four American bases were attacked including two airfields.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu went on the radio to defend his one-man candidacy in the Oct. 3 presidential election and to appeal for calm.

But shortly after he spoke, students and disabled veterans set fire to cars and battled police in anti-Thieu demonstrations not only in Saigon but also in Hue.

The U.S. military command said two American F4 Phantom jets were on a bombing mission over the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos when they received gunfire from anti-aircraft guns in nearby North Vietnam. The jets attacked the gun positions in Mu Gia Pass, 78 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and just east of Laos.

At least one secondary explosion was sighted.

It was the 64th such protective reaction raid of the year.

Two other F4s bombed another Communist anti-aircraft unit Friday in Ban Karai Pass, 38 miles north of the DMZ Friday.

A Roaring Success, It'll Become a Local Fixture

BOOKS are always a popular feature of any fair and the book table at last Sunday's Sunset Drive-In Fair and Flea Market was no exception. Browsers thumbed through one tome after another; carted home a goodly supply to see themselves through the long winter nights ahead, when curling up with a good yarn under the electric blanket is one way to ignore the weather outside.

NO MATTER HOW YOUNG a lady may be, she's attracted to jewelry. And this table laden with truly beautiful necklaces, pendants and rings lured pig-tailed lasses and mature matrons alike. More than 70 exhibitors participated in the Sunset Drive-In Fair, the first of its kind in Ulster County.

AN OLD LANTERN catches the eye of one fair-goer, while prospective buyers behind her weigh merits of kerosene lamps, tea kettles and candle-stick holders, among other items. More than 1,600 people turned out for the fair at the outdoor theatre, bringing the assurance that there'll be many more similar events there in the future.

BOTTLE COLLECTING is a hobby that's on the upsurge currently. And, for that reason, no flea market these days is without a table or booth that features old bottles, jars and glassware. And who knows what treasures might be found there? Why, there might even be one from The Alexander Steam Bottling Works at Kinderhook.

WOODCARVINGS DISPLAY proved an intriguing feature at the Drive-In Fair. Hundreds stopped to marvel at the small but intricate birds carved with painstaking care, and the interesting shapes of driftwood mounted on bases. Fair was a well-rounded attraction, boasting its share of arts and crafts, along with rummage, pots and pans, and auction items of every type.

DANIEL COX, area manager of the Walter Reade Organization and coordinator of the fair (in sunglasses), and his team of helpers showed up for the festivities in old-fashioned striped shirts and vests, strawhats and bow ties. Cox pronounced the event a roaring success; says there'll be a repeat performance tomorrow and every Sunday, weather permitting, and—come warm weather again next year—many, many more of the same. (All photos by Freeman Photographer Bob Haines).

A Photo Portfolio From the Darkroom Of Willard Levine

This unique photo portfolio, keyed to the spirit of its subject matter, is the work of Willard Levine, 21-year-old camera craftsman and a resident of Town of Ulster. Originally from Westchester, the youthful Levine recently graduated from Manhattan's School of Visual Arts; has been working mostly with 35 millimeter film or a Roliflex camera for the past four years.

His ambition is to be an artist who takes pictures, and he leans towards "people pictures" and making plain objects such as doors turn into beautiful things.

Actually, all subjects appeal to him, but—careerwise—he wants to do only work that is creative. In the recent past he has mostly concentrated on documentary photography and working with light and how it affects different objects. And while he captures all the animation or poignancy in a child's face, he also imbues inanimate objects such as Volkswagen vans, doors, chairs, walls and wearing apparel with a special life of their own.

Says Levine: "I enjoy having people look at my work and seeing in it what they want to see, since I believe that art should be interpreted as the individual wants to interpret it."

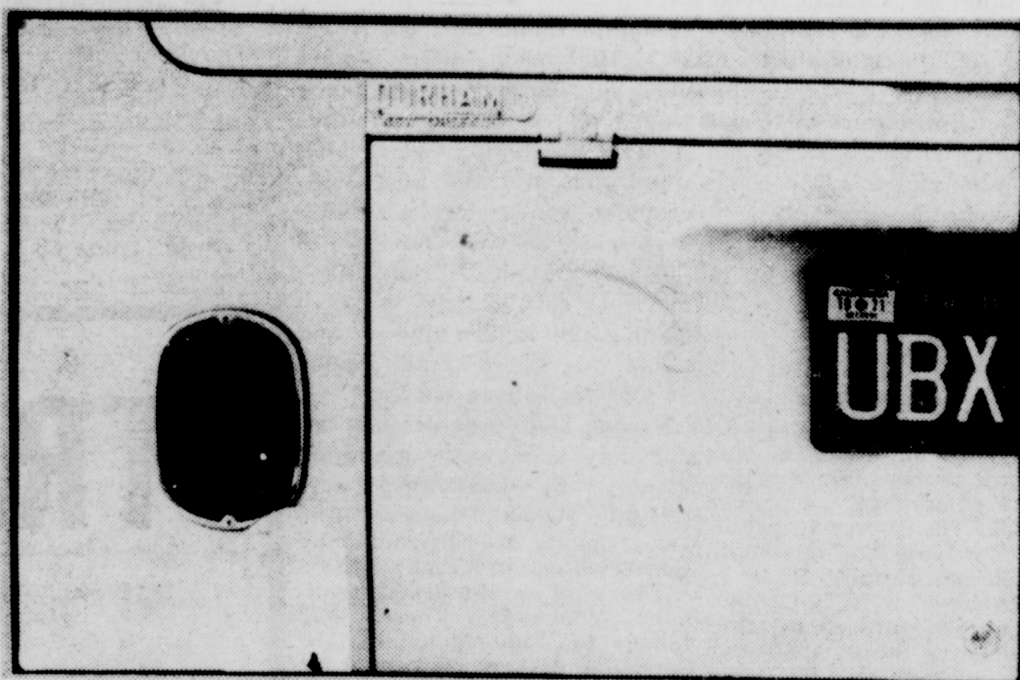

Currently available for full or part-time photographic work, Levine lives at R.R. 1, Box 351 B, Town of Ulster.

THE YOUTHFUL ENTHUSIASM that traditionally accompanies a parade is evident in this photo by Willard Levine of three kids curbside awaiting a Loyalty Day march.

WITH A TENTATIVE SMILE wrapped around his lollipop stick, this youngster also attracted photographer Levine at the same Loyalty Day festivities as the trio in candid shot above.

NO PLAINER OBJECT exists than the back of a van — but Levine's intriguing photo imbues a tail light and license plate with a fascinating sense of unusual interest.

MAKING PLAIN OBJECTS (a door, a wall, a chair) turn into things of beauty is the ultimate aim of photographer Willard Levine, a young man with talent, ideas and dark-room ability.

AGAIN THE SUBJECT is a chair juxtaposed to a wall and, again, the young man behind the camera has used them for far more artistic purposes than they are normally utilized.

ON THE HUNTER MOUNTAIN SKY RIDE

Fall Foliage Treat In Our Catskills Via Ski Lift Rides

Within the next few weeks the autumn foliage spectacle will move into our Catskill Mountains, changing summer's greenery into brilliant shades of red, yellow and gold. As this phenomenon of nature advances across area slopes it brings out the traditional army of tourists and photographers who search each fall for colorful views of trees framing barns and farmhouses, rambling stone walls and tumbling brooks.

It's difficult to predict exactly when the foliage changeover will occur in the Catskills because the autumnal display depends on temperature, rainfall, chlorophyll and other variables. The spectacle begins in the northern and mountain areas of the Empire State in late September or early October and gradually spreads to other sections of the State. About two weeks are required for completion of an area's color cycle, and peak brilliance rarely lasts more than three or four days.

Good views of the Catskill landscape are obtainable from most of our scenic highways. The magnificent scenery of the Catskill foliage is at its best along Route 17, Quickway through Orange and Sullivan Counties; Route 23, the Mohican Trail, Catskill to Oneonta; Route 23A, the Rip Van Winkle Trail, from Catskill to Prattsville; Route 28, the Onteora Trail, Kingston to Onteora; Route 52, the Shawangunk Trail, Newburgh to Narrowsburg; and Route 209, from Kingston south to Port Jervis.

Two Catskill Mountain ski centers have chair lifts operating on weekends during the foliage season. Belleayre Mountain Chair Lift, off Route 28 at Highmount, offers a good view of the surrounding area from its 3,325-foot summit. Hunter Mountain Chair Lift, south of Hunter and Route 23A, provides visitors with a mile-long ride to the summit of Colonel's Chair. From here tourists can follow a trail leading to a fire tower and panoramic views of the region at 4,040 feet above sea level.

Hiking also provides an opportunity to view the autumnal display in the 246,940-acre Catskill Forest Preserve. The Department of Environmental Conservation maintains a network of well-marked trails near Phoenicia. These lead hikers to Slide Mountain, the Catskill's highest peak at 4,204 feet, Cornell Mountain, Wittenberg Mountain and Mt. Tremper. Other trails are found near Big Indian, Claryville, East Windham, Haines Falls, Hunter, Lanesville, Margaretville, Oliveira and Pine Hill.

Many Catskill resort hotels and motels remain open during the foliage season to accommodate tourists and fall vacationers. Some offer discounts now that the peak summer season has ended.

So, why not start planning right now to spend a day or weekend just lapping up the scenery when the foliage changes take over in the Catskill Mountains.

Ballet School Sets Classes

KINGSTON
Kingston School of Ballet, now in its fourth season, is currently registering new and past students for classes to begin this month. The school is under the supervision of Fred Douglass deMayo, guest lecturer at State University of New York in New Paltz, former member of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet, and once soloist with the National Ballet.

Janet Reed, former prima ballerina of the New York City Ballet is artistic advisor for the local school; was responsible for its founding as a center for training young artists interested in serious ballet studies, and to provide Kingston with a professional school dedicated entirely to ballet arts.

Kingston Ballet each year provides eligible students the opportunity to perform with some of the world's most celebrated artists at Saratoga Performing Arts Center with the New York City Ballet during its summer residence there. It also provides tuition-free grants to talented boys from age 12.

Interested students must be at least seven years of age to enroll in the ballet studies beginning this month. Adult evening courses for men and women in physical fitness groups are also slated for the season, but require advance registration. To register for either the ballet or physical fitness classes, apply to the school, 243 Fair Street.

Music of Brahms A Campus Event

An evening of chamber music by Brahms featuring the viola will be presented at Bennett College, Millbrook, Thursday, Sept. 30. The concert, open to the public without charge, takes place in May Friend Bennett Chapel beginning at 8 p.m.

Mildred Johnson, violist, and Timothy Vernon, pianist, will play the Sonata in E-flat opus 120 No. 2. Margaret Kangas Clapp, Vernon, and Dr. Johnson, all Bennett faculty members, will perform the composer's two songs for contralto, piano, and viola. Christine Fredenburg, violinist, and Glenda Bossen, cellist, will join the two instrumentalists in the Piano Quartet in G-minor opus 25.

Dr. Johnson is a well-known performer as first violist and viola soloist of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic; Mrs. Clapp was a Robert Shaw Chorale soloist before coming to Bennett in 1968, and Vernon is also director of the Hudson Valley Opera Workshop. Mrs. Fredenburg is a member of the first violin section and Mrs. Bossen of the cello section of the Philharmonic.

The concert is the first in a series to be given by the Performing Arts Department music faculty this year at Bennett.

Two for Mancini

It now develops that composer Henry Mancini, after 10 years away from composing themes for television series, not only is doing such for the CBS "Cade's County" program, as previously reported, but he is also providing the theme for NBC's new fall series, "NBC Mystery Movie," which consists of three rotating dramatic segments.

Twain's Rewriter Lectures Monday

John Seelye, novelist, critic, An outstanding authority on scholar, and "rewriter" of Mark Twain's literature who received his Ph. D. from Twain's Huckleberry Finn, will inaugurate this year's Codey Claremont in 1960 and is now Lecture Series at Bennett on the English faculty of the College on Monday, Sept. 27. University of Connecticut, Dr. Dr. Seelye's talk, "The Hobbitt Seelye also published "The Habit, or, Tripping Along with Iron Diagram" last year as Tokien, Kesey, Brautigan, and an attempt to explicate the Segal," is based on his study complexities of Herman of the elements of fantasy in Melville's novels and poems by contemporary literature. The means of a "diagram" of the event, to which the public is opposed imagery that appears invited, will take place in throughout these writings. His Carroll Hall Lounge beginning series of essay-reviews on at 8 p.m. popular culture appeared in The New Republic in the past year also.

"The True Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," which aroused both widespread applause and controversy when it was published last year, was his attempt to answer the harshest attacks on the artistry of Twain's classic by rewriting it "for the critics" and was called a breakthrough in criticism by Benjamin De Mott in the New York Times Book Review.

Having completed "The Kid," a novel he describes as "sort of a Western" that will be published by Viking Press early in 1972, Dr. Seelye has turned again to his particular interest, maritime literature, and is currently working on a study of the river in 19th and 20th century American literature.

LIKE THE CATSKILLS CLIFF from which it was painstakingly cast, artist Manuel Bromberg's Cliffside Sculpture wore a mantle of snow last holiday season. The cliff, a unique new art form, was recreated by Bromberg, of the State University College at New Paltz Art Department, from its counterpart in nature high atop a Catskills peak. It now has found a new and permanent home on the side of a college building on the Mall on the Paltz campus, and—draped in a vanilla coating during the snowy season, it wears the authentic look of winter as naturally as its natural counterpart. NEWBURGH Scenes of outdoor life in the Hudson Valley area and around the world are on display this month in the Mount Saint Mary College Library, Newburgh. Executed in watercolor, they are the work of Don Selchow of Monroe.

Selchow, an engineering consultant and retired mining engineer and geologist, holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from Yale where he began his art training by taking electives at the Art School.

He has studied with Charles X. Carlson, John Gould, and, for the past seven years, at the John Pike Watercolor School in Woodstock. His work for the past 12 years has been exclusively in watercolor.

NEW PALTZ his other distinctions, Bromberg

In the hands of Thomas Cole (1801-48) the Catskill landscape became a crazy, beautiful, hallucinatory trip. Now as a result of work begun in the late 1960's another Catskill artist has produced a work of epic form — one as pioneering as any of Cole's and one based just as truly on the Catskill landscape.

Working in the direction established by his 1963 reliefs in plaster, Manuel Bromberg has created 22 feet high replica of a Catskill mountain cliff. Sections of this piece have been exhibited at the Convocation on the Arts at the campus of the State University of New York at Albany and at the O.K. Harris Gallery in New York City.

Responding to the 15 feet section shown in Albany, William Seitz wrote: "During a period when nature is being raped and polluted, when our cybernetic buildings make us forget its existence, how admirable it is that one sculptor was moved, and had the skill, ruggedness and determination, to recreate a huge fragment of nature's randomness and structure and present it before us for meditation and rejuvenation. Such audacity, one feels, would have delighted the souls of William Cullen Bryant and Thomas Cole."

Reviewing a group exhibition of contemporary sculpture at the O.K. Harris Gallery, which included one of the cast polyester sections of the cliff, Peter Scheldahl, in the New York Times, called this work "astoundingly realistic." The larger original cliff has been permanently installed on the campus of the State University at New Paltz, dedicated to the memory of Martin Luther King. A second section has recently been acquired by the Storm King Art Center in Mountainville, where it will be installed this month as a part of its permanent collection of contemporary sculpture. Photographs and a description of the process involved in the creation of this work will soon appear in the European art journal, Leonardo.

Manuel Bromberg, Professor of Art at the State University College at New Paltz, received the Distinguished Research Award from the State University of New York in 1967 and a large Grant-in-Aid in 1968-69 to help finance the awesome project of casting a cliff. Among is a Guggenheim Fellow, a noted muralist, war artist, and was a close associate of R. Buckminster Fuller during the early explorations of geodesic structures. Bromberg has exhibited in major galleries and museums both nationally and internationally — London, Paris, New York, Detroit, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

In recognition of this many faceted artist, the College Art Gallery at the State University College at New Paltz presents a retrospective exhibition of the work of Manuel Bromberg as the first show of the 1971-72 season. Represented in this exhibition of paintings, drawings, and sculpture will be examples of Bromberg's great range of interests during the period from 1938 to 1971: portraits, mural projects, reliefs and most recently, the cliff project.

The exhibition will open in the College Art Gallery with a reception for the artist this Sunday, Sept. 26, from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend this opening and to view the exhibition thereafter during regular gallery hours through Oct. 17. The gallery is open on Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., on Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and on Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Says Bromberg, a highly unpredictable artist, of his own history of artistic perversity: "When there is too much of something — something is missing. And I try to do what is missing." Those who visit his retrospective show at Paltz this month and next will find themselves agreeing that he succeeds in that effort.

'Bailes Espanoles' Closes Hyde Park's Summer-Fall Scene

HYDE PARK troupe features Antonio Martinez, Louis Montero and Carmen Dominguez. Excellent accompaniment is provided by Francisco Espinosa and Carlos Pucherete. Also included on the bill is flamenco singer Antonio De Alvala.

One of the worlds' most exciting and colorful dance groups will arrive at Hyde Park Playhouse, Monday, Sept. 27.

"The JOSE MOLINA BAILES ESPANOLES has been acclaimed the world over and features 12 of Spain's most brilliant and dedicated dancers and musicians," says VARIETY, the show business bible.

"The MOLINA FLAMENCO is wonderful," wrote the MIAMI HERALD. "MOLINA is a man of many talents," notes the LOS ANGELES HERALD-EXAMINER, and so the reviews have gone from Texas to Minnesota, and New York to California.

Set House Record

The MOLINA BAILES ESPANOLES is a highly trained and disciplined group of dancers and singers who are currently in their 10th anniversary tour of the U. S. They have just returned from Los Angeles, where they played a three week record-breaking engagement at the Lindy Opera House.

Headed by Jose Molina, the

Unlike other flamenco groups, the Molina troupe includes dances of a peasant flavor done in soft shoes and covering great areas of space, showing much of the costumes and folklore of Spain.

The dance group will be at the Playhouse for one week until Oct. 2, with two shows Friday night at 6 and 9:30. There will be no Thursday matinee.

Sell Out Appearance

During the summer the troupe appeared at the Playhouse in the Mall, Paramus, N.J., and sold out the house for two weeks. Much the same is expected here in their only engagement.

The BAILES ESPANOLES will be the closing presentation of the Hyde Park Playhouse for the summer-fall season. For information and reservations for this final exciting and colorful show call 229-9141.

Open Auditions Set For Suspense Drama

NEW PALTZ thrallled by Henry Fonda as When you see Ninety Miles Off Broadway's fall production, "The Night of January 16th," you might be expected to ask yourself, "Where was I on the nights of Sept. 28, 29 and 30?" Where you should be on those evenings is at the New Paltz Middle School — auditioning for NMOB's planned production of writer Ayn Rand's suspenseful stage drama.

The play focuses on the trial of a woman accused of murdering her former boss, with the prosecution stressing jealousy as the prime motive. A parade of witnesses for the defense and prosecution weave conflicting stories to sway the jury in its decision of guilty or not guilty.

JOHN BURROUGHS' SLABSIDES RETREAT

Slabsides' 'Day'

WEST PARK

It's almost time for Open House Day again at Slabsides, the West Park retreat to which famed Catskills naturalist and writer John Burroughs once retired to author his luminous books on conservation and ecology in an earlier age.

The public is invited to visit Slabsides on Saturday, Oct. 2, an earlier date than in previous years. So ink in this autumn outing at John Burroughs' cabin, a National Historic Landmark, right now.

Plans call for a nature walk in the early afternoon, led by Dr. and Mrs. J. Alfred Adams, of Hyde Park. At 11 a.m., before the walk, there'll be a short program to dedicate three acres of woodland overlooking Slabsides, being presented by the family of Julian Burroughs in his memory to the John Burroughs Association.

Take a Picnic

Open House Day visitors are invited to bring along a picnic lunch and participate in all activities. The rustic cabin will be open for inspection from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Oct. 2, rain or shine.

To reach Slabsides and its rural landscaped beauty take Floyd Ackert Road westward from Route 9-W at West Park, passing the post office and crossing the railroad track and proceeding to the top of the hill. Park at the point where Burroughs Drive joins Floyd Ackert Road and walk on to the cabin from there.

Paltz Planetarium: Worth Supporting And Worth Saving

NEW PALTZ college campus in the Among the most fascinating Coykendall Science Building: attractions in Ulster County is A Short Trip into Outer the Planetarium at the State Space—October 20, 27, University College in New November 3:

Paltz. Here can be explored in depth the new age that began when man first stepped onto the moon.

For area school children over the past six years, the Paltz Planetarium has proved an intriguing and educational place to visit. But, now, because of the crunch in the State Budget, the Planetarium—which has been serving the community free of charge since it opened in late 1965—finds it must begin making a small charge for a regular showing.

The charge will be only 50 cents per ticket but since the seating capacity is also small (55 adults or 60 children), 50 tickets must be sold per showing to break even. And, far worse, if breaking even is not achieved during the Fall Semester, the Planetarium will be forced to close its doors next January.

Has Served Thousands

Records show that since 1965, approximately 70,000 people have seen showings at the Planetarium. Of these, some 75 percent were pupils from public and parochial schools. On most Tuesday and Thursday mornings during the Fall Semester, the Planetarium will again be having showings for such groups but—of necessity—must now charge a fee of $25 a showing (or about 50 cents per pupil). Teachers or schools interested should contact Miss Debra Olson, Curriculum Center, telephone 257-2048 for details.

On most Thursday evenings, the Planetarium plans to have showings for students, faculty and staff of the college, but will again have to charge 50 cents per individual ticket. On specified Wednesday evenings during October, November, December and January, showings will be held for the public at large, but again for 50 cents a ticket. These can be obtained only through the Student Faculty Association. No tickets will be sold at the door and no cash accepted, so those interested should make arrangements in advance.

Since the Planetarium offers an invaluable service to the entire area—and is definitely non-profit and educational—TEMPO urges its many readers to support it in its hour of need. Plan to attend at least one of the Wednesday showings listed below, slated in the Planetarium on the Paltz

Catskills Home

John McGiver, fine character actor being seen this season as a chemistry professor on NBC's "The Jimmy Stewart Show," commutes from Hollywood to his home in New York's northern Catskills as often as his work schedule permits. Home is a converted former Baptist church that is now a 12-room dwelling. McGiver needs the space—he has 10 children.

Flight of the Galaxies—November 10, 17;
The Christmas Star—December 1, 8, 15;
The Winter Sky—January 5, 12
Doors open at 7:30 p.m.; showings last about one hour and begin promptly at 7:45 p.m. Admission by ticket only, 50 cents each at Student Faculty Association office in C.U.B. during business hours Monday through Friday. Or, at least 12 days before showing date, write Student Faculty Association, C.U.B., State University College, New Paltz, N.Y. 12561, request date or dates, enclose minimum check of $1 (for two tickets) payable Planetarium Fund and self-addressed stamped envelope. Tamburitzans Return To Cultural Centre By Popular Demand

NEWBURGH

The Tamburitzans, a lively and colorful dance troupe from Duquesne University, will open the 1971-72 season at Mount Saint Mary College Cultural Centre at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 3 in the College Theatre, on the Newburgh campus.

Returning to the Mount stage by popular demand, the Tamburitzans will present a two hour musical pageant of Slavic folk music, songs and dances. They sing a dozen different European languages and perform the music and dances of as many countries.

Brilliant and authentic costumes of the peasants pour forth in the true art form of the people. The costumes used by the Tamburitzans are either original native dress as worn by some villager whose particular culture is being presented or an extremely faithful copy of this original. When an original costume is not available to copy, pictures and written descriptions must be researched.

In Slavic Costumes

The Tamburitzans possess one of the largest collections of Slavic costumes in the entire Western Hemisphere. They have gained the reputation of experts and consultants on all Slavic and Balkan dress, as well as that of many other nations. Over 500 different costumes are used in each concert.

The lute-like tamburitz instrument is the foundation of the troupe and is supported by other traditional instruments such as accordion, clarinet and violin. The chanting of dissonant voices, the hypnotic beat of the goat-skin drum and the haunting sounds of shepherd's flutes add to the interesting quality of their performances.

The Tamburitzans, founded in 1937, is an independent organization. They founded the Tamburitz School of Music in 1954 which trains thousands of youngsters in the arts related to Slavic folklore and they also maintain a museum which displays priceless heirlooms and hand-labored items of the Balkan and Slavic states.

Each season the Tamburitzans offer from 90 to 100 concerts throughout the U.S. and Canada. Three European tours, one to the Soviet Union and a Latin American tour have been made by the company.

Tickets for this event may be obtained by calling Mount Saint Mary College Cultural Centre, Newburgh.

PICTURE FRAMES in an unusually large assortment line the walls of the Robin Frames studio on Woodstock's Tinker Street.

Masterpiece Frames Are the Specialty At Robin Studio

WOODSTOCK

Care for a picture frame fit for a Picasso, an Andrew Wyeth, a Rembrandt?

The craftsmen at Robin Frames, 54 Tinker Street, Woodstock, have framed works by all those masters plus many other greats.

Eric Brugnoli was formerly assistant shop foreman of the framing studio of the Museum of Modern Art in New York. Under his hands were framed many of the museum's pieces, including work by Chagall, Matisse, Renoir, Degas and van Gogh.

A Specialist

Nancy Haney, another of the Robin framers, is the daughter of the late Edward L. Chase, a distinguished Woodstock painter and a student in the first Woodstock class of the Art Students League. Mrs. Haney was with the Norton-Howe frame shop for 10 years. She has made a specialty of framing the work of major area artists, including Philip Guston, Milton Avery, Doris Lee and Arnold Blanch.

"A proper frame both suits the owner's taste and does justice to the work of art," explains Stephen Robin, owner of the shop. "We offer our consultation service free of charge or obligation to help owners select the right frame for their work."

The Robin framers have an unusually large assortment of frames available to clientele. One reason for this is that the frame shop draws upon the extensive woodworking equipment owned by Robin, a noted furniture designer.

And, best of all, prices are not prohibitive, are in line with other more commercial firms.

NANCY HANEY, one of the top Robin framers, has specialized in framing major art works for more than 10 years. (Freeman photos by Haines)

COLORFUL BEACH SCENE was the subject chosen by artist Florine Rensie for inclusion in the Woodstock summer show reserved for septuagenarians only. Exhibit was a tribute to both the formidable talent and prolific output of artistic senior citizens. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

'Over 70' Exhibition Youthfully Creative

In an age of youth dominated culture — where all seems to revolve around rock, posters, rucksacks and blue jeans rife with peace patches — where does an exhibition of art by artists who have reached the non-youthful age of 70 fit in?

It fits in very well if the professionalism and high level of creativity demonstrated in a recent summer show at the Woodstock Artists Gallery is a universal example of senior citizen art.

There was nothing patronizing about this exhibit, even though it was billed as an uninhibited salute to ARTISTS OVER 70 IN THE 70's — and culled its canvases with a nostalgic nod in the direction of many painters who came to Woodstock when both they and the art colony were young.

Laufman's Trees

The name of Sidney Laufman has long towered at the top in the art field, and his painting of trees in this show was evidence that he remains as versatile as ever as a septuagenarian. Trees have often been a Laufman subject and he invests them with a variety of symbolism a younger artist might overlook. Every Laufman canvas contains an original idea and every tree demonstrates a sense of strength, fertility and even passion.

Maurice Sievan's painting in luminous greens was an extra-terrestrial approach to the vast and sweeping realm of space and color; as modern as Warhol and far removed from the stereotype of an artist who has added 20 years to his half century mark.

Modernity was missing — and happily so — from Joseph Pallet's earthily nostalgic "212 to Woodstock," recalling for old timers less frenetic days when Route 212 was a more leisurely road and less an auto-clogged highway.

Kudos were in order, as well, for John Taylor's subtle "Black Bayou, No. 2," in carefully controlled muted tones. The quiet of the Bayou scene spoke more eloquently for the ecology movement than any slogan or TV commercial of today.

No Generation Gap

In art, then, the generation gap is non-existent. The age of an artist and the vitality of his work cannot be judged in the light of youthful "now" fashionableness.

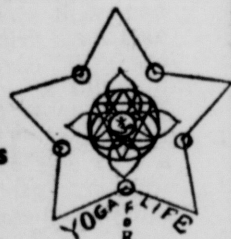

To browse among the paintings in this show was to find architectural mystery in a Walt Peters church drawing, riotous color in a Sigmund Menkes canvas, freshness and delicacy in Gertrude Jarvis' girl in a boudoir, discipline and craftsmanship in a Paul Denville rendering, delicious nostalgia in Gus Schrader's mountain cabin, exquisite beauty in Jo Cantine's reclining girl, strength in the female head in beige tones by Lucille Blanch, bright reality in the beach scene by Florence Rensie, and an updated Somerset Maugham

Many other artists over 70 contributed to this novel exhibition. Even so, some of our personal senior citizen favorites were not there — and were sadly missed. Where, oh, where were the late Henry Mattson (a long-time giant talent), Dudley Summers (the finest of craftsmen for many years), and Marguerite Evans Isaacs (always to be relied on for startling, interesting, unusual work)?

JULIE CHRISTIE is a mining-town madam in the old West and Warren Beatty the hard drinking gambler for whom she sets up house in "McCABE AND MRS. MILLER," the sometime fascinating film of life in a frontier town now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre. Dutchess County movie-goers can see it currently at Poughkeepsie's Juliet.

MOVIES

McCabe & Mrs. Miller

Robert Altman, the man who directed "M-A-S-H" and "Brewster McCloud," has now given us "McCABE AND MRS. MILLER," a sometimes fascinating film, and now playing at both Kingston's Community and Poughkeepsie's Juliet.

There are some fine moments of satire, excellent acting by minor characters, and enough powerful scenes to make "McCabe" an interesting way to spend an evening. But there are also some spots that stretch into boredom.

Still, it's a sardonic Western that will appeal to very adult adults. It casts Warren Beatty as a hard-drinking gambler who uses his card shark earnings to build a saloon and a house of ill repute in Northwest frontier town. That he comes to a bad end when he refuses to sell his profitable spread is fairly predictable.

Historical Flavor

The flavor of pioneering history is captured in the muddy streets and unpainted wood buildings — and in the fabulous characters from out of the past: a roistering hillbilly, a typical smart aleck gunslinger, a group of giggling girls and their madam, an early capitalist who backs up his business transactions with violence and hired guns.

"McCabe" boasts one of the most harrowing endings of any film in recent years as Beatty is tracked through the snow by gunmen. But Beatty never recaptures the flair he showed in "Bonnie and Clyde" and Julie Christie is far from lovable in her role. Where the film does excel is in its portrayal of the spirit of individuality that won the West and in the marvelous performances by the secondary characters.

The Hired Hand

Actor-moviemaker-and-self-styled anarchist Peter Fonda is back in his first film since "Easy Rider." This time he's riding easy a different way in "THE HIRED HAND," now playing for a first run in the area at the Hyde Park Drive-In.

Like his father and sister, Peter has talent and, whether you like this movie or not, you'll have to admit that the fine hand of his cinematic skill is evident. In blue jeans and flowing strawberry blond beard, he plays a man who rode off and left his family years before; is now coming home to those he abandoned because he has reached the end of the trail; has no place else to go.

"Hired Hand" is a western film that will draw mixed reactions from its audience, but — for us — the highly professional performance by Warren Oates as the man who will ultimately carry on for Fonda is the movie's biggest drawing card. Oates, who has mostly been confined to playing petty thieves in the past, emerges as one of the screen's finest talents in this and other recent films.

On the double bill at the Hyde Park Drive-In is another first-run feature, "THEY MIGHT BE GIANTS," a fine piece of inspired madness with Oscar-winning George C. Scott as a social reformer who's convinced he's Sherlock Holmes. Joanne Woodward co-stars as a psychiatrist who turns out to be his Dr. Watson.

Summer of '42

One of the big hits of this past summer is back at Kingston's Mayfair. That would be "SUMMER OF '42," a film so enjoyable it's worth seeing more than once.

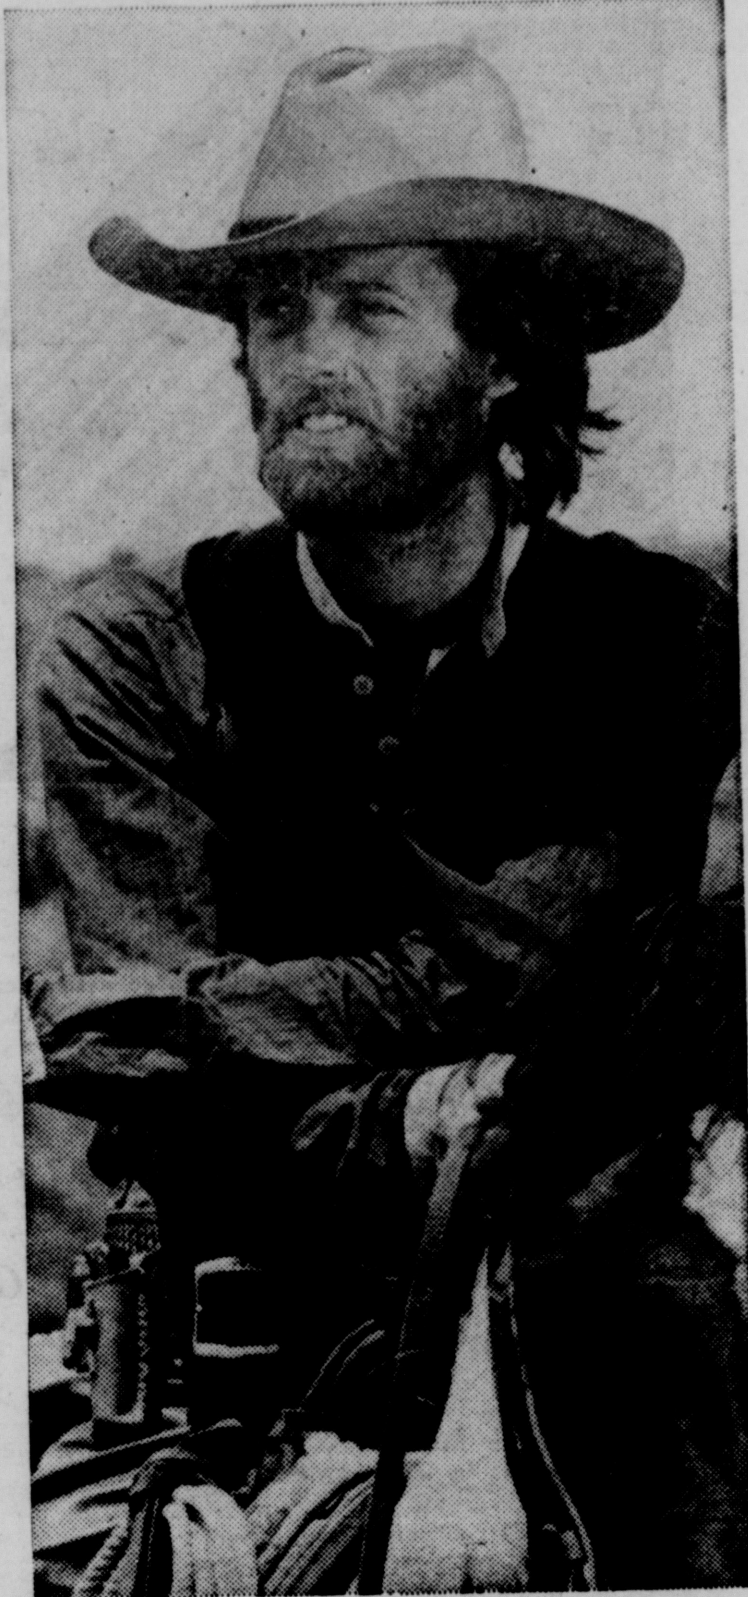

Youthful newcomer Gary Grimes excels as one of three teen-aged boys who leave boyhood behind and learn about life during a summer vacation on an island at the beginning of World War II. Romantic, nostalgic, reminiscent, it is an appealing tale of a youngster attracted to an "older woman" of 22 who has sent her soldier husband off to war.

Other Choices

LAST SUMMER. This top quality rerun has returned to the local Sunset Drive-In currently. One of the best films about teenagers ever made, it's the story of three youngsters at play on Fire Island and of a fourth who tries to join them. A realistic portrait of the young and human bad seeds that flower in the summer sun, it has a shattering impact in its reality; boasts four gifted young performers and breathtakingly beautiful photography. As a commentary of the last summer of innocence on the part of the characters, it is totally stunning; cannot be faulted.

On the double bill at the takes all the injustice he can Sunset is the first area showing of "COME TOGETHER," a film about which nothing much can be said except that it's one of those new adult skin pictures.

BANANAS. The inimitable Woody Allen authored, directed and stars in this movie, now playing at both the Orpheum in Saugerties and the Overlook Drive-In in Poughkeepsie. He focuses his fine sense of comedy on military dictatorships South of the Border. His looney satire also zeroes in on warfare, sexfare, security and subversion, and other contemporary nonsense.

RIDING EASY A DIFFERENT WAY this time, Peter Fonda plays the lead in "The Hired Hand," his most recently released movie. It's on the current double bill at Hyde Park Drive-In as one of two first run films featured there now.

Billed with "Bananas" on the Orpheum's double feature is "VALDEZ IS COMING," with Burt Lancaster playing a meek Mexican-American sheriff who before fighting back against racism. And on the double bill at the Overlook is "HOW TO FRAME A FRIGG," a comedy with Don Knotts.

LEMANS. At the Rosendale Theatre currently, Steve McQueen stars (and does his own driving) as a racing car driver of today. Filmed at the Grand Prix, it's filled with sizzling cars, pit talk, loud speaker announcements, shots of a crowd of thousands, lots of colorful French atmosphere, and no story other than the race itself. Paar's 'Diary'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jack Paar has sold another of his filmed African adventures to NBC for broadcasting during the 1971-72 season. It's called "Jack Paar's African Diary," the result of a four-month jaunt through Africa.

Glen's Serials

"The Glen Campbell Good-time Hour" on CBS this new season will have a weekly segment that is a comedy spoof on old-fashioned movie Westerns. The idea is to imitate the cliff-hanger serials of the past.

WOODY ALLEN'S "Bananas," the newest film in which Allen wit is used to ridicule everything from guerilla warfare to sex warfare, is now playing at both the Orpheum Theatre in Saugerties and at Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In. Allen also directed the film, which is in color.

PLACES TO DINE & DANCE

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

Vacation G-O-N-E, like last month's pay. But do we have to tell you, it's our annual chance to go broke in style! Luncheon at Gasho of Japan in Central Valley is always a unique dining treat. Building alone is reason for going. A 15th Century Japanese mountain house that served as a hideaway for fleeing Samurai warriors, the two-story wood structure's a rarity today, even in Japan. (In case your history needs reviewing, Samurai were bands of defeated warriors of Bloody 15th Century who fled to hills of Japan where they built their camouflaged retreats.) First of its type to be assembled in this country, original building was dismantled in Japan and shipped to Central Valley for reconstruction. Renovation was completed without nails or bolts; timbers are tied together by hand with sinewy rice rope that hardens to consistency of cement.

Food is cooked in front of diners on gas-heated grills imbedded in center of each tabletop. Tables seat up to eight diners, family-style around three sides. (At our table were patrons from California, Idaho and Newburgh — sort of East meets West.) Menu includes Hibachi Chicken and Sukiyaki Steak (medium-sized portions) with variety of vegetables prepared in way we've never seen and seasoned to perfection. Waitresses in medieval native garb add color to the place, already overflowing with atmosphere.

Among Gasho's best selling points is clientele. Tho we've seen owner only once before, believe it was he bein' served as we were takin' leave. And what better ad is there than proprietor who dines in his own restaurant!

P.S. It's only 'bout an hour away; Thruway exit 16 at Harriman, take right turn on Route 32 for two miles (weekends crowded). Don't worry 'bout chopsticks; they provide 'em forks, too, for the uninitiated.

Remember last summer when Chairman of the Board Frank Sinatra dropped anchor at Dave Blakely's Mariner's Harbor in Highland? Well, don't be surprised it it happens again. This time a bit closer to home (your home, that is).

Dale Nelson, also of Mariner's, and Mr. B. have taken over Captain's Table in Eddyville and, if even half their plans take place, it'll make the world a better place to eat (as well as 'nother spot for Frankie-boy to dock). Patio plans're in offing along with new docks AND up-to-date bar already in makin's. Besides sole, shrimp, scallops, frogs legs, trout, chicken, steak, Chef Billy Reynolds is addin' Lobster Newburgh to menu. As for live Maine lobster, one may pick his own fresh from lobster tank.

Everybody's excited as all get out 'bout end-result but waitress Joan can hardly constrain herself.

Rosendale's Joe Liguori who appeared on Jack Paar Show with Dody Goodman, renewed old memories with her last week at Hyde Park where she appeared with Vivian Vance (of Lucy fame) in "My Daughter, Your Son". Hearty congrats to the Bills, Moser, Mabie, Schweigel top chefs in men's baking contest last Saturday at Port Ewen. Understand one of judges came prepared with elasticized skirt to "give" with goodies. Record attendance at recent Rotary barbecue. Rotarians looked all in; localities were all out. Tuggin' on drumstick was Skip Kugleman of Kingston Savings; his infant son had heck-of-a-good-time chewin' away on napkin, Ulster County Savings at that. (Perhaps it was peppermint-flavored; anyhow, Jack St. John sure missed perfect promo photo.)

Movies and TV do it, why not newspapers? COMING SOON: Friar Tuck Inn and La Rive Restaurant. And speaking of bein' broke, do you know what three months from today is?

CLEAR THE TRACKS . . .

... I've got a lot of catching-up to do; so much that I'm even going to skip my "Pet Peeve" Department, my guerrilla warfare against what I call "Menu Myopia" . . . the inability to analyze the right-hand column on a restaurant menu! If I have any space left, I'll get in a few words about that later. But right now, here are a lot of words about a lot of lovely people recently

SCENE AT ROBERTO'S.

For instance, MARK BROWN, of Kingston, is now 20 days older than the day he celebrated his 16th Birthday at Roberto's. Partying with him were parents Jean and Ken Brown and sister Jill, along with Grandma Anna and Adele, Pearl and Eugene Ackerman. Jean reported: "Food Good; all enjoyed the celebration." That same evening Mr. and Mrs. John Sasso, of Saugerties, celebrated their 30th Wedding Anniversary, cheered on by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Guido of East Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Mayone, of Saugerties. Comment: "Meal was very good, as good as ever." Our Hero Of The Hammond, Mark Garrison, finally came through with a list of celebrants at the Christening Party in honor of Mark Sean Garrison, born on his Dad's Birthday, July 6. In addition to mother Joanne, local folks attending included: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mickney, (Grandparents); Mrs. William Shiels, Miss Darlene Shiels, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shannon; Mr. and Mrs. John Boss and son Johnny; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Van Kleeck Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Matthews; also Aunt Kathy and Sean's big sister Lisa Marie. Out-of-Towners included: Mr. and Mrs. Gerow Garrison, (Grandparents), of Walden; Mrs. Ella Garrison, (Great Grandmother), of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Marion Lewis, of Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. John Garrison and daughter Christine, New Paltz; Mr. and Mrs. Irving Garrison, Walden; Mr. and Mrs. John Quest, Poughkeepsie; Miss Anna Mickney, New Jersey; Miss Mary Mickney, Penn.; The Rev. Father Joseph Gallagher, Penn.; Mrs. Esther Touro, Texas. Music was, needless to say, by Roberto's own sterling regulars, "Pop" Mark Garrison and Godfather Thomas Fitzgerald Jr. (Darlene Shiels was Godmother). Mr. Ed Shannon and Mrs. Joseph Mickney did a couple of songs together, as well as a few solos, and everyone had a wonderful time, with the possible exception of Sean, who couldn't have cared less!

When Mrs. Freddie Stohr, formerly of Dobbs Ferry, but now a Kingstonite, was visited by Marcia and Martha Rieke, (from Dobbs Ferry), where did she take them to dinner? Roberto's, of course this results: "Food Wonderful; Service Super; Will Be Back Again, soon." Mr. and Mrs. Jack Turk dinner-partied Mrs. Turk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schmidt, on their 47th Anniversary. Also at table was Mrs. Nellie Turk; all Kingstonites. Jack Turk's comment was predictable: "Very enjoyable occasion; excellent food and service." That's what you always say! A Family Gathering, from diverse and distant points, brought Glennon and Mary Thro, of Freeport, Ill., to table with Kathryn and Norm Spinnweber and Helen and Victor Taylor, of Kingston. Dr. Joe and Betty (and 2-year old Karen) Thro, of Miami, Fla.; Helen and Donna Van Buren, of Sawkill, N. Y.; and Rosemary and Elwood Wardlow, of Williamsville, N. Y. Quoth Glennon: "Worth a splurge! Roberto's provided perfect setting." The Birthday Party for Mrs. Mary Staiger, of Chichester, brought together Mrs. Janice Deston, of Mt. Tremper; Mrs. Kay Fernandez, Mrs. Emma Knight and Miss Patricia Knight, all of Shandaken, and Mrs. Elizabeth Somerville, of Chichester. It also brought out this beautiful comment: "Dinner was excellent, service superb. Everybody went out of their way to make it an enjoyable evening."

Then there was Cookie Perry, of Port Ewen, star of an intimate Dinner Revue entitled "Cookie Perry's Retirement From County Treasurer's Office." In addition to Cookie, the supporting cast of this Dinnerlude were Eleanor Bell, of West Shokan, Winifred and Joe Kranick, of Hurley, and, natch, Mama Lucy Perry. And Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fodor, of Kingston, celebrating their 25th Wedding Anniversary, decided not to list guest except as "Family;" but I'm happy that the laconic Mr. F. wrote "The food and service were excellent." That's as good as a dictionary, from a man who doesn't waste too many words! Not so laconic, were Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Morrell, of Kingston, about their 5th Anniversary Dinner, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Aversano, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Miss Teri Carpino, of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clemente, of High Falls; Mr. Jerry Dempsey, of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. James S. Engers, Port Ewen; Mr. and Mrs. James Ferranova, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lombardo, Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. James Maloney, Pearl River; Mr. and Mrs. P. Milwroth, Clifton, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard

J. Plock, Saugerties; Donald B. Robins, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Steven Sonky, Schenectady. Now hear this: "Twenty of the above were deaf people, and they said the service and food was the best ever!" Personally, I am happy to report that this was one beautiful occasion; may you all enjoy many more!

At the 25th Anniversary Dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Stroble, of Bloomington, N. Y., the guests-in-waiting were Ruth and Bud Clearwater, of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eschenbecker, of Bloomington; Esther McCue, of Kingston; Dottie Poulis, Hurley Heights; and Daniel Stroble Sr., of Bloomington. They say good things come in threes . . . such as the triple birthday dinner for Manda Fraser, Betty Howard and Don Williams. Whooping it up impartially were: Wanda and C. J. Fraser, Doris Gentile, Betty and Lem Howard, Ruth Kieffer, Wendy Rielly, Betty and David Schwab, Nancy and Tony Sparacio, Donald Williams Jr., and Kay Williams . . . all Kingstonians except the "Hurley" Schwabs and "Highland" Sparacios. Wrap-up (by the Schwabs, I suspect): "Ernie, what can we say that we haven't said many times before? We had a ball. The entertainment was excellent." Now, about that last compliment . . . I must express my THANKS, to the "regulars" who have done so much to make Saturday Night the loveliest night of the week, as far as Roberto's is concerned: Augie and Sharon, Jack Turk, Fran, Tony "Red" Amato and Papa Joe, Don Carr, Ed Shannon, Dan Callinan . . . and so many other great folks who help make our "Saturday Soiree, Shivarree and Sing-Along" such a red-hot attraction to fun-loving folks. And let's not forget the always-on-tap talents of Mark Garrison at The Hammond and Tommy Fitzgerald at the Drums . . . a pair that can go along with any gag, or song, or dance. Yes . . . there'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town tonight, after the dinner dishes are cleared away!

REPRISE

I can't get off the stage without harking back to my campaign to teach folks how to read a menu . . . which means, in essence, how to add up what you're offered for your money and see if you're paying for a whole dinner or only part of one. When Roberto's charges $5.50 for a Fillet of Sole Dinner, with Relish Tray, Shrimp Cocktail, Baked Potato, Fresh Vegetable, Salad, Dessert and Coffee . . . plus a Pre-Dinner Cocktail of Your Choice . . . please don't compare that with a Fillet of Sole Dinner minus the Cocktail, with 1.25 extra for the Shrimp and 50c extra for the Dessert you like . . . and decide that we're "high-priced" because you can get the cheaper dinner for $4.50. And remember, whether you want Fillet of Sole at $5.50 or Filet Mignon at $8.50 . . . all the fixings are the same for each dinner, regardless of price. Click that up on your abacus and see what you get!

HAPPY NEW YEAR

I was, unhappily, too preoccupied to remember to wish a Happy New Year to all my Jewish friends and neighbors last week. But my "mayvin" tells me that any time between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur is time to wish one a Year inscribed for Happiness. I wish all of you just what I wish everyone else on God's green footstool . . . Peace and Brotherhood, time to relax and think and enjoy your family and friends . . . and a decent chance to make a living and keep some of what you toil for.

Weinstein Exhibition For Champignat Hall

POUGHKEEPSIE has been represented frequently in Woodstock Art Association shows; served several seasons as a member of the board of directors of that group. She has also held membership in the Parnassus and Kaaterskill Galleries in Woodstock.

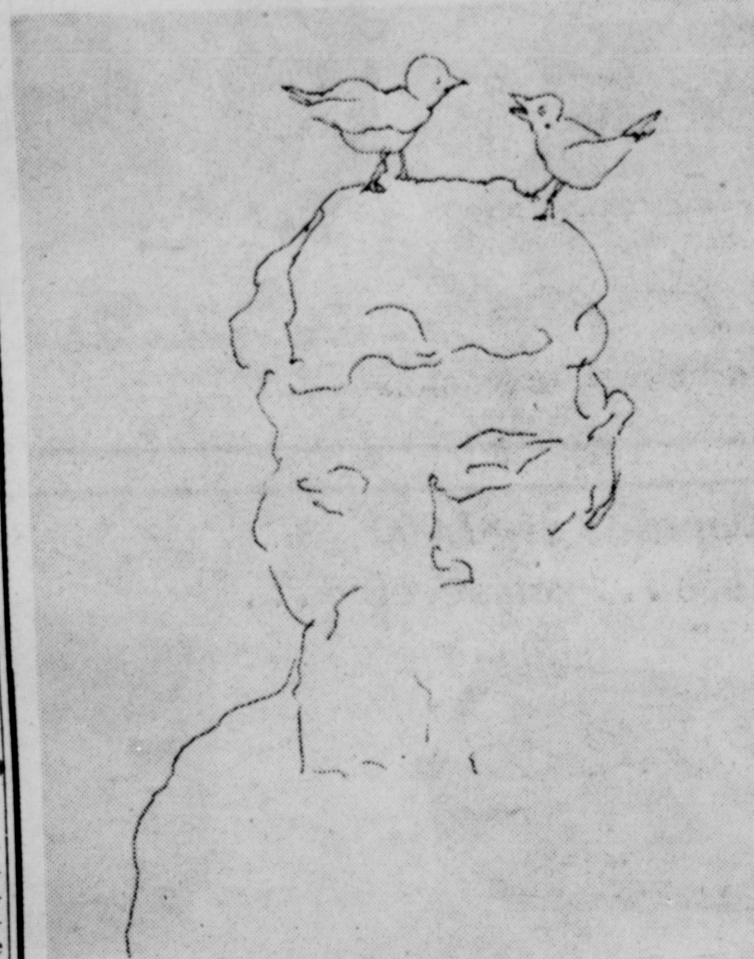

At Phoenix Gallery

With more than several one-man shows to her credit in New York City, her work is currently on view there in the Phoenix Gallery on Madison Avenue. She was also represented in the prestigious 1958-59 Pittsburgh International at Carnegie Institute; has exhibited in many shows sponsored by the Provincetown Art Association. Her work also appears in various collections, including the Norfolk Museum of Arts and Sciences and Franklin Marshall College.

Considered a member of the artistic generation of lyric abstractionists, she has been praised by critics as a "natural" painter who works primarily from her intuitions for color, rhythm and form. And these intuitions, say reviewers, produce "wonderful and unique results." Based in Abstract Expressionism, her works flower in Lyric Expressionism—as in her "nature" paintings—where her instincts have been praised for being "as true as her own assiduously creative gardening."

Dancercise

WOODSTOCK

A new type of dance class will be offered this fall at Woodstock Artists Association, and it kicks off Tuesday, Oct. 5 at 10:30 a.m.

Designed for women of all shapes and sizes, its objective is to improve muscle tone and flexibility of the body, while stimulating the relaxing the muscles at the same time. Students will also learn various modern dance movements as their muscle control increases. The class is geared for beginners through intermediate.

It'll be taught by Mrs. Iris Bresler, whose training includes scholarship study at Martha Graham School of Dance in New York and ballet study at San Francisco Ballet School. She has previously taught modern dance and physical fitness classes in New York and will also be directing Dancercises at Ulster County Community College on its Stone Ridge campus.

For further information, call Mrs. Bresler at 679-9635.

Crafts Exhibit Visual Delight

WOODSTOCK

A dozen years have rolled by since the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen first made news with its Annual Crafts Exhibition.

The edition opening today, Saturday, Sept. 25, from 1 to 5:30 p.m., marks the 12th such yearly show. As always, it's open to the public; offers an opportunity to view the best work of the finest local and area craftsmen in various media.

Prizes will be awarded for excellence in each category: ceramics, enamels, weaving, jewelry, general, as well as Best-in-show and the Harry Schmidt Silver Award.

Any exhibit at the Woodstock Guild can be counted on to provide visual excitement. This one will be open seven days a week, 1 to 5:30 p.m. from today through Nov. 2. The Guild is located in the center of Woodstock just off the Village Green.

PAW Open House

WOODSTOCK

Performing Arts of Woodstock extends an invitation to one and all to its Annual Open House to be held tonight, Saturday, Sept. 25. Festivities begin at 8 o'clock this evening; will take place upstairs at Deanie's restaurant in Woodstock.

The evening's entertainment will include a film on Kabuki theater, the traditional theater of Japan. The movie was produced by the Japanese Government and has been shown on national television. Also, on the program: a demonstration by Bobbi Shlasko of a new concept in dance — with volunteer audience participation. Refreshments will be an added attraction.
